Good morning. This is our parish report. I'm Jeff Mackey last Saturday night may 26, was a stellar night for the socialites movers and shakers of the gay community who flocked to Wertham center theater frocked in bactine expensive evening gowns. The occasion was the 37th annual Dianna awards, a spoof of the Academy Awards, normally held in April to coincide with the Oscars. This year as Diana show was moved to encompass along in Memorial Day holiday weekend. The decision turned out to be in a student who has made more out of town visitors than usual, provided the opportunity to travel to Houston for this year's Diana's the theme of this year is to act performance was a new decade the lesson continues. The casting performers who had been in rehearsal for weeks heard of the class act. Stopping the show was a Madonna Vogue production there but performed by Courtney van Wales and the Olympic Gymnastics style Diana dancers, though got the Egan's on the callback and standing ovation on the serious side, the Diana Award for outstanding community service went to socialite Carolyn Thorpe for her work with the AIDS Foundation, Houston, Greater Houston AIDS Alliance and bearing Care Center and other charities. I am truly honored and will cherish this award forever since the previous recipients of the coveted award have included Houston Mayor Catherine Whitmire munchers businesswoman Ryan Coleman, and last year's former Community Volunteer Maria Robert. Three years of Diana Foundation has given 1000s of dollars to charity. In the last 10 years since AIDS became a health crisis. The Diana's have put most of their fundraising efforts towards health care assistance. The awards opened on the high note when Diana, President Frank MPZ, read to the audience a warm letter and greeting from First Lady Barbara Bush. I salute the good work being done by the diamond Foundation, and I am so grateful for your efforts on behalf of others best wishes for continued success with the first. Bush recently signed a hate comes about in the President in the presence of many of the country's gay leaders who we invited to the White House for the signing. and Mrs. Bush recently wrote to the Federation of Parents and Friends of Lesbians and gays. We cannot tolerate discrimination against any individuals or groups in our country. Especially as the response came Madras Goodman president of the group, which represents 24 million gay and gay Americans and their families. His brushes eloquent words make her distaste for discrimination based on sexual orientation clear from the International march to cure AIDS now that will be held July 8. The day before the economic summit begins in Houston has made arrangements to expand to a five day event scheduled scheduled beginning Friday night July 6. With a reception at the bioterrorist room 70 live in Franklin Street in downtown Houston. The first event on Friday is a reception for everyone and to welcome our out of town guests to our cities David David Fowler, Houston director of the march a downtown dance and fundraiser scheduled for that same night at the Coliseum has been cancelled. Instead a big dance has been planned at heaven for Saturday night on the march. The March and rally will be held Sunday July 8. It will begin at 11am Sunday at Texas and Smith streets will follow at 1pm at Herman square in front of Houston City Hall. T shirts, buttons and visors are available now and persons interested in getting involved in helping with the March we're asked to contact the cure AIDS now office at 71352928982. Researchers are beginning a series of studies aimed at untangling the nature and nurture of sexual orientation. They are seeking lesbians who are female twins, gay men with male twins and gay men with adoptive or genetically unrelated brothers. The sexual orientation of subjects twins and brothers does not matter. So Dr. Michael Bailey, the principal investigator who was traveling to several cities in Texas this summer to interview subjects mainly received his PhD from the University of Texas at Austin. Bailey has done two preliminary studies on the development of sexual orientation in the first study, which is to be published in Archives of Sexual behavior. He tested the theory that prenatal stress might predispose men to become gay. He found the evidence for the theory, however, he found a high rate of homosexuality among brothers of gay men. In the second study to be published in behavioral genetics, Bailey and colleagues question more than 150 pairs of male twins about their sexual orientation finding tentative evidence for some genetic influence. Individuals who fit the eligibility criteria were asked to collect the Family Studies Laboratory at Northwestern University in Chicago at seven or 84914239. Lesbian and Gay delegates from across the state were gathered together at the state convention of the Texas dinner Great party next weekend June 8, and ninth in Fort Worth. Having been elected by both their precincts and their county conventions, the delegates will be conducting the business of Texas largest political party, including the election of party officers, adoption of party rules and debating of the party's platform for the fall election. The convention convenes at 6pm Next Friday evening, but prior to that he has been engaged in events of Texas will host the Lesbian Gay caucus from two to 3:30pm at the Tarrant County Convention Center side of the convention. Attendance at the caucus is not just limited to convention delegates. Anyone with an interest in lesbian gay issues is welcome to participate. Following convention activities on both Friday night and Saturday evening, LGBT will host with assistance from the Tarrant County Gay Alliance and hospitality suite at the Hyatt Regency Hotel across from the convention center. For further information on next weekend's convention and the lesbian gay role in the Democratic Party, contact Dennis hatch at 512356823 or Michael Milliken at 214-522-3507. And it's all for the outdoors report this week on Jeff Mackay. Y'all take care.

I'm Sandy wire. I'm wondering, with news wrap a summary of some of the news and or affecting the lesbian and gay community for the week ending May 20 1990. Reports of homophobic violence continue in Sydney Australia, despite an increased police presence in predominantly gay and lesbian areas of the city. Three gay men were brutally beaten last month by a gang of six teenagers who use tree stakes boots, karate and Kung Fu styled packs to inflict severe head injuries on two of the men. The Third Man was thrown out into the street in the path of oncoming traffic passers by who stopped to help the victims are credited with ending the assault, possibly saving some lives. And in Norway, a group of skinheads fired shots into a lesbian and gay club in the city of Oslo. Although no injuries were reported. Activists are accusing the right wing Norwegian government Men and some of its Christian ministers with provoking increased violence against gays and lesbians in that country.

10:06

The newsletter posse Libertas Yan reports that a more or less ation campaign in Guadalajara Mexico has resulted in a crackdown on gays and lesbians. police have raided newsstands that sell sexually explicit magazines and videos and the city's mayor has ordered the closure of all businesses that cater to lesbians and gay men.

10:27

In the Pacific Northwest region of the United States, several acts of violence against ethnic minorities and lesbians and gay men never got beyond the planning stages. This way out. Tony Scott has a story from Seattle, Washington.

10:41

A party disaster may have been averted with the arrest of to Idaho man whom police say planned a series of bombings against gays and minority. Officers say the arrested man had the makings of a pipe guns and neo Nazi leaflets in their possession. according to FBI agents, Robert Winslow and Steven Nelson plan to bomb the popular neighbors disco on Seattle's Capitol Hill, bomb a series of targets in Tacoma, including Korean businesses and minority bar and a Jewish synagogue. The men were allegedly looking for a quote high body count to publicize and strengthen the white supremacy movement. In addition to the two men arrested in Seattle, the FBI arrested a third man in Idaho Saturday and conducted a search of the Idaho headquarters of the Aryan Nations and neo Nazi group.

11:32

That report by Tony Scott in Seattle, Washington.

11:36

The World Health Organization has named Dr. Michael Merson, and American public health expert to be the new head of their AIDS program. Mersenne succeeds Dr. Jonathan Mann, who resigned in March citing differences with W. H. O Director General Dr. Hiroshi Nakajima over AIDS program strategy. Merson, a native of Brooklyn has been the acting head of the group's AIDS program since man's departure.

12:05

The Student Union at the University of Queensland and Australia is conducting a student referendum this month on whether or not to establish a gay and lesbian support area on campus. If approved, office space would be provided and staff would be hired to provide counseling and support services as well as to coordinate campaigns to encompass harassment and discrimination. The University of Queensland Student Union has had a gay and lesbian rights policy for over 10 years. And despite a pattern of rejection of referenda on campus, the Queensland association of gay law reform is optimistic about approval.

12:42

Meanwhile, the administration's of University College in Dublin and rotmans college have formally recognized the lesbian and gay student groups on their respective campuses. In the case of University College, the recognition comes 10 years after the student group was formed, lobbying by student unions and lesbian and gay societies at other colleges finally led to the official recognitions, which now makes information about the groups available to incoming students and also allows them to apply for campus funding.

13:13

A judge in Nova Scotia, Canada has upheld the provinces sodomy law, saying it does not discriminate against gay men. Judge Kenneth Crowell noted that the Canadian Constitution prohibits anti gay and lesbian discrimination, but he says that the sodomy law which outlaws Adel intercourse doesn't interfere with that protection. The lawsuit arose from the case of a high school vice principal, who was found guilty of having sex with one of his students.

13:41

US Congressman Pat Williams, in Montana Democrat has introduced a measure that would provide no strings federal funding to the National Endowment for the Arts for five years. Since last October, the NEA has been prohibited by legislation sponsored by North Carolina homophobic Senator Jesse Helms from funding many works of art, including sexually explicit lesbian and gay themed works. The new measure, which is backed by the White House, would do away with that restriction.

14:11

And finally, John Williamson, the owner of the only gas station in Valley Ford, California, is suing the makers of the all male adult video full service, saying they used footage of his station without permission. Williamson says the video leads viewers to believe that he is a character in the video and has sex with other men. So how did Williamson find out about full service? The owner of the local market, which rents videos gave Williamson and his wife a copy of full service, telling them they should watch it.

15:14

The $600 million aids disaster relief package proposed by Senators Ted Kennedy and Orrin Hatch several weeks ago, was overwhelmingly approved in the US Senate on May 16. The legislation offers federal assistance to the cities and states which had been hardest hit by the epidemic. Right Wing North Carolina Republican Senator Jesse Helms did his best to add homophobic and aids phobic amendments that received little support. Brene Brown reports from Washington DC the ultra conservative Hills issued a moral attack against persons with AIDS what he called promiscuous homosexuals or intravenous drug users.

16:00

16:09

Greenville, North Carolina or Indianapolis, Indiana, Texas,

16:16

we'll never have an age

16:20

like San Francisco, nobody will have it like San Francisco. That's where they all congregate. But you know, a lot of folks don't say American people.

16:31

Helms accused liberal senators of rushing to associate with the AIDS calls faulting them for as he puts it, scrambling to get their names on anything that resembles doing something for AIDS. But his opinion represents only a tiny minority of Republican senators, conservative Republican, Orrin Hatch of Utah, co authored the bill, I don't care what the underlying cause is all I know is that there's a problem out there that needs to be addressed. And we can't address it by sitting back and saying people shouldn't participate in sexual activity. And I know that isn't going to stop. We're gonna have to approach this problem in a caring, intelligent, compassionate way. And that's what this bill.

16:52

17:22

Under the bill cities with over 2000 cases of AIDS would be eligible to receive federal grants. The money would be targeted at hospitals and other health facilities serving large numbers of poor people. The measure authorizes 600 million the first year and an estimated 2.9 billion over a five year span. Lawmakers also envision the money being used to develop alternative methods of treatment for persons with AIDS for every brown Washington.

18:07

Between your slides.

18:31

The US Senate may have Jesse Helms, but the House of Representatives has weighing him down a mire of California. The day after the Senate passed the AIDS disaster relief package. The Americans with Disabilities Act was introduced into the US House of Representatives. Dan Meyer, who practically sees homosexuals looking under every bed around every school yard, manage to inject his own almost obsessive homophobia into the debate on civil rights for the physically challenged. Derrick Ward has the story.

19:00

HR 2273, the Americans with Disabilities Act would prohibit discrimination against disabled persons in employment, public accommodations and transportation. So far, the bill has enjoyed overwhelming bipartisan support in Congress. But there are several points of controversy. California Republican Congressman William Danmark says the bill in its current form classifies people infected with the HIV virus as handicapped. And this according to Dan Meyer is unacceptable since 70% of those people in this country or HIV carriers are male homosexuals. We are going to witness and attempt or an utterance on the part of the homosexual community that when this bill is passed, it will be identified by the homosexual community as their bill of rights.

19:26

19:46

The Act uses court precedents establishing that people with the AIDS virus are protected against discrimination and employment and education. Those same precedents hold however, that people who pose an immediate danger to the public a danger which cannot be alleviated by reasonable accommodations are not covered. Still, the legislation is being heralded by both Democrats and Republicans as a long overdue extension of the Civil Rights Act. Bill Richardson is a Democrat from New Mexico, this should not be a debate about homosexuals or AIDS or HIV drug users. This is a debate about the civil rights for the disabled. In the early 60s, the this was the beginning of the Civil Rights Movement. society began to recognize that discrimination in the workplace and public accommodations were no longer acceptable, that each of us is a human being with feelings and deserves to be treated as such.

20:11

20:39

The Bush administration supported earlier legislation that closely resembled the current Disabilities Act, and supporters of the bill are hoping to make it another step in the pursuit of the kinder gentler America Derrick Ward Washington.

21:11

you've tuned in to this way out the international lesbian and gay radio magazine with Lisa Chappelle I'm Greg Gordon. The New York State Health Department will be handing out funds to several agencies later this month to expand the number of residents facilities in the state for people with AIDS. Then we look Roman Catholic Archdiocese, which operates eligible agencies could seriously influence the quality of counseling and support services in those state funded residences. David Sears reports on the continuing battle between aids advocates and the church over what constitutes proper care for people with AIDS.

22:03

rows on regulation

22:09

the agency today of the State Department of Health released the first draft of proposed standards for care for residential health care facilities for aged patients. These standards would apply to any of the nonprofit groups who receive state funding to operate such a facility. The health department requested comment on the proposed standards from a variety of interested care providers and aids advocates. Charles King staff attorney for the AIDS Project for the Coalition for the Homeless, says the response was almost unanimous. So the comments either supported the standards

22:39

or as they were called for stronger standards, with the exception of a letter by parents cardinals, the Archdiocese facility which they had so many objections that they wanted a meeting. According to Kane, the Archdiocese had meetings with the Department of Health. One was to other potential care providers and he believes one private meeting. None of the AIDS advocacy groups were allowed to attend these meetings came says on April 19, a revised set of standards was issued.

22:52

23:10

Chiefs have been taken out of the standards of care, leaving them open to right interpretation by individual providers.

23:17

Robert Peterson of the Gay Men's Health Crisis says the revised standards give providers an exemption from having to follow a state public health policy on HIV prevention, explicit

23:28

HIV education and prevention on family planning services, range services, contraceptives to abortion options to OB GYN services on site. This is a whole people need to know that they have all the knowledge and options available to them, or at least 14 other possible care providers who have applied for funds to establish residential care facilities. Nick Mulcahy of the AIDS coalition to unleash power says the church has applied pressure to suit its ideals of health care, these are public health.

23:52

24:09

The church has the option to provide care for people are ill however, they should abide by the public health standards. Not in hind closed doors, twisting the arm of the State Governor Cuomo standards of these facilities to compare with instruction dog. Anti woman

24:35

AIDS activists are asking State Health Commissioner David Axelrod to reinstate and strengthen the original draft of the guidelines to reflect the fact that these will be facilities for ambulatory AIDS patients. People who are not bedridden, will enter and leave the facilities and may be sexually active. I'm David Sears.

Gene lesbian activists in San Francisco are up in arms over the resistance by some members of their school board to establish a program in their city similar to Los Angeles is Project 10, which offers counseling and support services to lesbian and gay public school students. San Francisco School Superintendent Romain cortinas expressed reservations about the program soundly based on hackneyed stereotypes. David Lambeau filed this report on the storm the school board meeting in San Francisco earlier this month.

Ever since the earthquake the San Francisco School Board has been holding its regular meetings at schools throughout the district in the auditorium of the neuro local school board members found themselves being yelled at by a succession of gay activists incensed over schools who continue cortinas his remarks on the risks of enticing young people around their sexual orientation, as well as an ACT UP member who has been a counselor for high risk and homeless youth the tender line, just abandoned superintendent cortinas is enticement remarks absolutely an outrage and an affront to this community. It's a lesbian, gay, bisexual youth and youth who are themselves the sons and daughters of gay and lesbian parents in the city. Prime Bumgardner. I'm a resident of San Francisco, because I'm gay High School was absolute hell for me, every day of it. I still bear the emotional scars of four years of unrelenting ridicule and physical harassment. So I wasn't surprised when I learned that the suicide rate among gay and lesbian teenagers is much higher than that among heterosexual teenagers. As someone who very nearly became part of that statistic, I urge you to develop and implement a project 10 program for San Francisco schools. And if superintendent Courteeners has a problem with that he should be replaced immediately.

27:27

27:38

28:29

Moving evening school board members were greeted with cries a vote vote vote for members of baclofen, the city's three gay democratic cloud activist insisting that the board not further delay a vote creating a project and program board member Joanna Miller's sponsor of the resolution to create project 10 said that it would be a mistake to hastily establish a lesbian and gay students support program that was not backed and implemented by the superintendent and his staff.

28:56

And right now the resolution isn't a controversy with the board. And you have to understand that there's a difference between the staff and the board board members Cydonia Wilson supported Miller's efforts to delay a vote on project 10 to the board's June 12th meeting. Or confessing she doesn't know if there is a fourth vote to pass the plan that would provide for Dropout Prevention, establish against Institute of curriculum and create a staff position to monitor anti gay harassment and discrimination.

29:25

My name is Jean Harris, and I wear many hats but maybe the most important one right now is that I am chair of the Lesbian Gay caucus of the California Democratic Party. We endorsed project can not only in San Francisco, but throughout the state of California. You tell us that you support the Lesbian Gay Agenda. I see you at our dinners. I see you at our rallies. I do not see money going into karate community 90 Inspiring lives. I do not see a project 10 implemented yet but I understand others have been working on this since last last October. We are tired of having homophobic slurs portrayed by superintendents of schools, teachers, principals and students on the playground. There has to be an education in our school system about homophobia. We were promised a major school in this city will be named after supervisor Harvey Milk. It has not happened. And you wonder why we questioned about why you continue a certain issue and you want to have it in the summertime when no one's here. Of course we question you. We have been told we have had your votes before. How can we trust that you're going to do what you say you're going to do? I've worked with politicians, I work with boards, and I don't know they're going to vote the way they started to vote until I hear it on the floor. Do not ask us to be nice. Do not ask us to be invisible. Do not ask to us to act in a proper way and behave ourselves and maybe we might get what we asked for. That's why we're here. And we will be here in two weeks. And we will be here in a month. And we will be here from now on until it's done.

That was Jean Harris, chair of the lesbian and gay caucus of the California state Democratic Party. In a report provided by David Lambeau. A few days after the school board meeting, the San Francisco Sentinel, a local lesbian and gay newspaper published a story alleging that school superintendent Ramon cortinas, who opposes that school counseling program is himself gay. The Sentinels publisher at REI chalker promptly fired managing editor and Michelle Duran, Lo, who not only ran the story, but publicly affirmed the newspapers support of outing that's the act of identifying a public figure as lesbian or gay.
