

[MUSIC - KATE BUSH, "SYMPHONY IN BLUE"]

(SINGING) Good for the blood circulation.

Hi, that was "Symphony in Blue" by a Kate Bush from her Lionheart album. And I'm Kenny Joe. I'm here to tell you that if you play an instrument or you used to play an instrument or if you're playing one right now, then why don't you give us a call and maybe you can fit into our Montrose Symphonic Motley Crew that we have formed. Incidentally, we just got back from Washington. Earlier, we were hearing the Washington speeches, Bette Davis and everything. And we heard all those speeches live and up close and everything. Yes, we were there.

That was Robin Tyler. That wasn't Bette Davis.

Anyway, well, she looked like Bette Davis from where I was standing. Anyway, there was half a million people there. You can't make out the faces. But we did play up there along with 16 other bands, which formed about a 200-piece band. Right, Jeff? About 200 people. And I was the soloist. And I told them I played in the Houston Symphony, and they were scared of me. It worked.

Where are some of the other places the band has played other than the Washington rally?

Well, we're fixing to play for that Halloween thing, right? We're going to play for it. Tell them about that.

Downtown on next Saturday the 31st of October, Halloween, during the day at 4:15 in the afternoon.

And we'll probably all be in drag when we do it since it is Halloween. And we can get away with it then.

So other than calling us here at the station, 526-4000, what number can they call to find out about the band?

527-9454.

All ready. We went out earlier in the week and talked to people about the GPC endorsement or lack of endorsement for an openly gay candidate for city council. This homosexual community of Houston, of which I am a part of, we're all criminals here in the state of Texas. We're all breaking the law just by walking the streets and by loving. When we love one another, we break the law. And personally, I don't like that. But there's nothing I can do about it right now except to register and vote. And I intend to do that on Election Day, so as a lot of others have told me that they want to do too.

And some people in the community don't feel like the GPC has stood up for us as much as they can. And if you have any thoughts on that, give us a call at 526-4000. We certainly want to hear what you have to say. I would like to publicly say to the GPC, the GLPC, excuse me, that this program went on the air here at KPFT September the 6th. And I began calling two or three weeks before we went on the air because September was Voter Registration Month. And I think it's real important if you get people out and register them to vote and how-- we've got 400,000, 500,000 homosexuals in the Harris County area. And that's a lot of votes if you start counting.

And I invited the GPC to send someone down and make a tape or come on the program and talk about how important it was, and they have yet to call me back. Maybe they don't know the phone number. Maybe the answering machine that they always have on when you call the GLPC offices does not work. I don't know. I'd kind of like to hear from them. If you'd like to hear from them, give us a call at 526-4000. This is what some of the folks had to say about the GLPC's lack of endorsement of an openly gay candidate down on Pacific and Grant on Friday.

I think the fact that the GPC has gone ahead and endorsed Mintzberg for this position is not really within our best interests.

Do you think the GPC is speaking for the majority of the gay community right now?

No.

I do not like it.

Why?

I really don't. Because the GPC should endorse somebody that stands for the gay community because that's what we're all about. If we don't stick together, we fall apart.

I think endorsing two gay members of the community is going to help the community because they live in the environment. They know the problems. They can endorse the problems that are going on right now. And they can deal with the problems that have to be dealt with. Instead of looking around the issue, they can go forward with the issue and say this is what's going on in our community because I'm a part of it. And I don't look at it from my standpoint as somewhere over here. I look at it from where I stand, and I live the gay community and I'm a part of it.

[MUSIC - TOM ROBINSON BAND, "BETTER DECIDE WHICH SIDE YOU'RE ON"]

Now, we can hear it. This is Tom Robinson. The first cut contained some obscenities that we can't play here, and we'll tell you about that in a minute.

[MUSIC - TOM ROBINSON BAND, "BETTER DECIDE WHICH SIDE YOU'RE ON"]

(SINGING) All you downtrodden people always--

Somewheres in Des Moines or San Antonio, there's a young gay person who all of a sudden realizes that she or he is gay, knows that if the parents find out, they'll be tossed out of the house, the classmates will taunt the child. And the Anita Bryants and John Briggs are doing their bit on TV, and that child has several options, staying in the closet, suicide. And then one day, that child might open a paper and it says homosexual elected in San Francisco, and there are two new options. The option is to go to California or stay in San Antonio and fight.

Two days after I was elected, I got a phone call, and the voice was quite young. It was from Altoona, Pennsylvania. And the person said, thanks. And you've got to elect gay people so that that young child and the thousands upon thousands like that child know that there's hope for a better world. There's hope for a better tomorrow. Without hope, not only gays but those Blacks, and the Asians, the disabled, seniors, the usses, the usses. Without hope, the usses give up. I know that you cannot live on hope alone. But without it, life is not worth living. And you and you and you got to give them hope. Thank you very much.

[MUSIC PLAYING]

Well, the bottom line is in this wonderful country that we live in, there are over 25 million men and women that make up what's known as the homosexual community. When I was a little kid, that word scared me to death because I was in the band, and my dad took me out with him one afternoon and said you got to stay away from the band director because he's a homosexual. I really didn't know what that meant because he was a good guy. He was always good to us. He never attacked us and never did anything wrong to us, but the word scared me to death.

Then when I was 18 years old, I was called into the office at a crummy little factory where I worked for minimum wage. And a man handed me a check and said, we don't need people like you working here. I lived in Omaha, Nebraska. I was tried. They tried. It didn't work. They tried to throw me out of an apartment building because they said they didn't want any faggots living there. And now, here we are in Houston in 1987. Last year, the police raided our bars. We took our lovers and our friends to the cemeteries and buried them, and the country continues to ignore the AIDS problem.

And there are 400,000 to 500,000 of us here in Harris County. And if you can't get off your butt and go register and vote, you don't have anybody to blame but yourself. I am one unhappy homosexual because I believe in America. I think this is the greatest land that's ever happened. And I believe in our people. The gay community is full of good people. The lesbian community is full of good people. But as long as we continue to hide and ignore the truth, and we ignore it as much as the straight people do. As long as that continues, the ignorance and the hatred is going to be there.

If you just come out, blow that closet door to hell and come out. It's not easy, believe me. I mean, I work for the city. This is a volunteer job, and it's not easy. But once you come out to one and to two and to three, it gets easier and easier and easier. And once we all begin to hold our heads up high and come out by the hundreds of thousands, they won't be able to turn their backs on us. Now, if you like being harassed by the police, if you like to hear the church tell you how rotten you are, if you like to hear the Jerry Falwells and the Anita Bryants and the Robert Briggs and all those people continue to spread their lies about us, don't vote. If you do want to change the world, and believe me, 25 million people can change the world. Just think about it, and do something for yourself.

[MUSIC - BRUCE HORNSBY AND THE RANGE, "THE WAY IT IS"]

That's from the album Bruce Hornsby and the Range, or that is Bruce Hornsby and the Range. It's from the album-- does anybody know what album that's from?

The Cleopatra Story.

The Cleopatra Story. Kenny Joe knows what album that's from. Yes, ladies and gentlemen, The Cleopatra Story.

One of my favorites.

No, I don't know what album that's from. But anyway, it's almost time for the news. We hear the news every week here on After Hours at 3:00 AM. And Brian Keever is standing by to bring you all the hot news from the Montrose area. Also, Allen Sands is thumbing through his notes getting ready for his community report. We're going to hear a little bit of music from the Montrose Symphony Band to get us to the news. Can you tell me again when this tape was made? 19--

What is it, the New York, New York tape? This was probably made about five years ago. Because I was in this concert.

Oh yeah.

It's about five years-- yeah, this was New York, New York at that-- the conductor was Andy Mills, and it was at the Tower Theater.

And you played a solo?

Always.

Well, the band's going to get us to the news. And what's the name of this song?

It's "The Parachuter's March."

And this is the Montrose Symphony Band, a band full of homosexual criminals.

Yes.

And they play every--

In more ways than one.

So here we go.

[MUSIC - MONTROSE SYMPHONY BAND, "THE PARACHUTER'S MARCH"]

Well, how was that? Pretty good, huh? Thank you, thank you. Yes. Well, that's a community band right there. That's not the Chicago Symphony. That is the Montrose Symphonic Band. That's a community effort. We all do it for free. And we all get together, and we have a good time. We have a good social time. Some people who haven't played their instruments for 20 years come back, and they pick it up again. And we do have instruments with us--

Really?

--that people have donated the instruments. If you don't have a horn anymore, just call us up and maybe-- we have saxophones. We have trumpets. We have a clarinets, I think. What else do we have? Do we have any more French horns? We have-- just call us up. And there's always a lot of percussion. Come back and play the marimba or something.

The marimba.

Yeah, so put you on something.

Well, you know what happens at 3 o'clock on After Hours here at KPFT?

Let's see, some kind of rite?

News, news, news. See, that clock says 4:00 AM. This one says 3:00 AM, so it must be 3:00.

It is.

It is 3:00 AM, and it's time for After Hours news.

[MUSIC PLAYING]

And now, After Hours on KPFT Houston brings you the news with Brian Keever, sports with Mark Schmidt, and our community bulletin board church report from Allen Sands. It's radio celebrating life from the heart of the Montrose. And it's time now for the news.

[MUSIC - SISTER SLEDGE, "WE ARE FAMILY"]

[INAUDIBLE] Montrose and the world. This is After Hours news, and this is your reporter Brian Keever. The stars came out at the Texas gay lobby board meeting. The powerful LGRL met here in Houston this Saturday and followed by a garden party to help pay off and help Glen Maxeys, one of our executive directors. After the board meeting, there was a garden cocktail type party honoring LGRL's executive director Glen Maxey at members and homes Lee Marster, 711 Hyde Park. Much hoorah was made of the evening.

Dateline New York and DC. Hate Crime Statistic Bill passes the subcommittee. An anti-gay amendment defeated. As a result of lobbying by the National Gay and Lesbian Task Force, the American Psychological Association, and the ACLU, and other organizations, the House subcommittee on criminal justice voted five to two in favor of the Hate Crime Statistic Act. That's HR 3193, a bill sponsored by representative John Conyers, a Democrat from Michigan, that would mandate the federal collection of statistics on crimes based on sexual orientation, race, religion, and ethnicity.

An amendment to remove the sexual orientation provision offered by representative George Gekas, a Republican from Pennsylvania, failed in a four to three vote with Democrats presenting the vote against the amendment and Republicans voting for it. This vote is a victory for the gay community and all those concerned with ending crime violence motivated by bigotry, said Kevin Berrill, the director NGLTF's anti-violence project. We'll keep you updated on further news on this development.

NGLTF condemns passage of Helms Amendment to propositions that were passed barring federal funds for AIDS education that promotes gay sex. The US Senate, on October the 14th, 1987, passed an amendment banning the use of federal funds for materials and projects in AIDS education that might promote or encourage directly or indirectly homosexual sexual activity. The amendment was introduced by Senator Jesse Helms, a Republican from North Carolina, to the $126 billion Labor, Health, and Human Services and Education Bill, which allocates close to $1 billion for AIDS research and education efforts in the fiscal year 1988.

The Helms Amendment was passed overwhelmingly by 94 to 2 vote with the two negative votes being cast only by Senator Lowell Weicker, a Republican from Connecticut, and Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan, a Democrat from New York. All other senators supporters of the Federal Gay and Lesbian Civil Rights Bill voted in favor of the Helms Amendment.

Our Boos and Hisses Department. That's right, boos and hisses. Austin anti-gay preacher Mark Weaver is bringing non-gay expert, author Gene Antonio, to La Maison Hotel next Tuesday in the capital city. The problem say local health experts at the State Department of Health, the author is no expert on AIDS, and he is very homophobic. And his writing has been far hated toward the gay and lesbian community. It's stirring up AIDS homophobia once yet again.

At first, the capital city's gay community took this preacher not very seriously about a year ago when he only had 50 people know and listened. Now, the Austin gay and lesbian community is trying to diffuse this minister's plan. This man is very bad, and we need to keep abreast of him. He is Austin's anti-gay preacher Mark Weaver. Dateline Washington. The Federal Communications Commission says it needs more time to study the First Amendment concerns, postponed a Monday to clarify its April crackdown on broadcast of indecent or obscene material. The agency was scheduled to act Tuesday on a petition from the National Association of Broadcasters, Action for Children's Television, and others that had criticized the policy statement as too vague and confusing to radio and television stations. After studying the issue last weekend however, FCC Chairman Dennis Patrick decided to pull it from the agenda for Tuesday's meeting, citing they needed to talk more and discuss more and clarify more.

At issue is reaching a proper accommodation between the First Amendment and the interest in protecting children from seeing or hearing obscene materials. The spokesperson said emphasizing the agency plan to clarify for an early decision not weakening. We'll keep you up in detail because that affects us here at this station very much. This is Brian Keever for After Hours news, your voice in the community at large. Also, be sure-- I've got to say hi to all the guys over at the [INAUDIBLE] house. You're doing a wonderful job. We really use you a lot. Thanks a lot.

(SINGING) Some of us were born in this city on the bayou. And some of us came looking for the sun. To build the kind of town that would open up its arms to anyone who'd work to get things done. Now, all of us call Houston Home, and we're the hometown crowd. And we're here to stay forever. Give a big thumbs-up together. Cause every one of us is Houston proud. Houston proud. Proud of the things we've done together. Proud enough to shine and sing it loud. We believe there's no place better. That's why we call it home. And we're all Houston proud.

It was wonderful.

Yes, I love the news.

News that is news that should be news.

Walter Cronkite for years. Well, Kenny Joe--

[INAUDIBLE] called him daddy on the screen.

Kenny Joe, Kenny Joe. Kenny Joe and Jeff are still here with us from the Montrose Symphony Band. We have The Monks with a song that I'd like to dedicate to my ex-lover, and it's entitled "Nice Legs Shame About Your Face."

On Patti Page.

Bobby Joe. I keep wanting to say Bobby Joe.

[INAUDIBLE] Petticoat Junction.

Kenny Joe has got-- you got something to say, don't you?

Yes, I just wanted to say, also remind you that our-- I know it's a little early, but our next major concert is the Christmas concert coming up on December the what? 11th? Or is it--

Yes, it's December 11.

Yes, December the 11th at the MCCR Church on Decatur, 1616 Decatur. And it will be 8:00 PM. And look for the fliers and for our ads. And please come, it's a great concert. Everybody loves Christmas music.

We'll be there.

OK, thank you.

[MUSIC - THE MONKS, "NICE LEGS SHAME ABOUT HER FACE"]

(SINGING) Nice legs, shame about your face.

[MUSIC PLAYING]

(SINGING) Do you remember when?

Did you bring these things into the house?

Probably.

And what do you mean probably?

I mean probably I did.

Well, probably you did could also mean probably you didn't. That's the way it is with a word like probably, right?

Probably.

Well, what is all this anyway? What do you got here? What is it, whipped cream there?

It's clam dip.

Clam dip? What's this? What kind of fish is that?

Smoked salmon.

Smoked salmon? I only get tuna fish for my lunch. Who are you having here, the Duke of Windsor?

What difference would it make? Whoever it is, you're not going to like him. You don't like anything about us. You resent our attitudes, our politics, even the clothes we wear. I don't think there's one thing about us you agree with.

I agree with that. But that don't answer the question. Who's the big cheese you're having here for lunch?

Roger.

Roger the fairy?

All right. Let's not go--

Did you hear that, Edith? You know who they're bringing around here for lunch? Roger, sweetie pie Roger.

All right. Would you cut it out, huh?

It's their dear friend, Archie.

Listen, Edith, we run a decent home here, and we don't need any strange little birdies flying in and out of it.

Dad, would you stop that? Roger's not a strange little birdie.

His pal Roger is as queer as a $4 bill, and he knows it.

That's not only cruel, daddy, that's an outright lie.

You know something, Archie? Just because a guy is sensitive and he's an intellectual and he wears glasses, you make him out a queer.

I never said a guy who wears glasses is a queer. A guy who wears glasses is a four-eyes. A guy who is a fag is a queer.

Would you stop talking about him [INAUDIBLE]?

Well, go ahead, Edith. Now answer the guy. Now, you've seen Roger sashaying around here with his la de da talk. He's a pansy.

I don't know.

What do you mean you don't know?

I'm not an expert on flowers.

[INAUDIBLE] you might as well face it. You're all alone in this. We all know Roger, and we all know he's straight. And even if he wasn't, and I said if, what difference would that make? Do you know that in many countries, England for instance, there is a law that says whatever two consenting adults do in private is their own business?

Listen, this ain't England. We threw England out of here a long time ago. We don't want no more part of England. And for your information, England is a fag country.

What?

[INAUDIBLE] they're still picking handkerchiefs out of their sleeve, huh? The whole society is based on a kind of a fagdom.

You know, you're right, Archie? You're right. The British are a bunch of pansies. Pansies, fairies, and sissies. And the Japanese are a race of midgets. The Irish are boozers. The Mexicans are bandits.

And you Polacks are meatheads.

Hi, this is Vicki Lindsey from Kindred Spirits, and you're listening to After Hours on KPFT Houston 90.1 FM.

[MUSIC - ARCADIA, "ELECTION DAY"]

That's Arcadia. It's called "Election Day." And Election Day is just around the corner. I think it's about nine days away, and it'll be here before you know it. Like I said earlier, we've got a chance to elect two openly gay men to the city council, and we'll see what happens with that. Before we hear some more music from the band, I want to play you something from the march back in October of the 11th. This is Pat Parker, a Black feminist. And she's humorous, and she had some words to maybe encourage you to get out and vote. These words were written back when they had an idiot in California by the name of Briggs that was trying to put them out of business. And those are Pat's words, not mine. And her poem is called "Where Will You Be When They Come."

Boots are being polished, trumpeters clean their horns, chains and locks forged, the crusade has begun. Once again, flags of Christ are unfurled in the dawn and cries of soul saviors sing apocalyptic on airwaves. Citizens, good citizens, all parade into voting booths and in self-righteous sanctity X away our right to life. I do not believe it some that the vote is an end. I fear even more it is just a beginning. So I must make assessment. Look to you and ask where will you be when they come?

They will not come a mob rolling through the streets but quickly and quietly moving to our homes to remove the evil, the queerness, the faggotry from their mists. They will not come clothed in brown and swastikas or bearing chests heavy with gleaming crosses. The time and need for such ruses are over. They will come in business suits to buy your homes and bring bodies to fill your jobs. They will come in robes to rehabilitate and white coats to subjugate. And where will you be when they come? Where will we all be when they come?

And they will come. They will come because we are defined as opposites, perverse. And we are perverse. Every time we watched a queer hassled in the streets and said nothing, it was an act of perversion. Every time we lied about the boyfriend or girlfriend at coffee break, it was an act of perversion. Every time we heard, I don't mind gays but why must they be blatant and said nothing, it was an act of perversion. Every time we let a lesbian mother lose her child and did not fill the courtrooms, it was an act of perversion.

Every time we let straights make out in our bars while we couldn't touch because of the laws, it was an act of perversion. Every time we put on the proper clothes to go to a family wedding and left our lovers at home, it was an act of perversion. Every time we heard, who I go to bed with is my personal choice, it's personal not political, and said nothing, it was an act of perversion. Every time we let straight relatives bury our dead and push our lovers away, it was an act of perversion.

And they will come for the perverts. And it won't matter if you're homosexual, not a faggot. Lesbian, not a dyke. Gay, not queer. It won't matter if you own your own business, have a good job, or an SSI. It won't matter if you're Black, Chicano, Native American, Asian, or white. It won't matter if you're from New York or Los Angeles, Galveston or Sioux Falls. It won't matter if you're butch or femme, not into roles, monogamous, non-monogamous. It won't matter if you're Catholic, Baptist, Atheist, Jewish, or MCC, they will come. They will come to the cities and to the land, to your front rooms and in your closets. They will come for the perverts. And where will you be when they come? Thank you very much.

That was Pat Parker from the rally in Washington. She spoke at the People of Color Caucus the morning before the march. And you guys marched in the parade, right?

Yes, we did.

Was it exciting?

Yes, we marched with Dallas. We formed a Texas band. And Dallas and Houston formed forces. And we marched four miles. And we marched too. I mean, we were in step.

Did you march past the White House?

Yes, we did. I turned and waved and played my trumpet especially for Nancy and played--

Did Riley and Nancy come out and [INAUDIBLE]?

I think I saw Nancy hanging out there. Her hair was being blown all over the place. But other than that, especially after I blew my trumpet, she kind of almost tripped off the balcony there and flipped a little bit, fell about 40 feet. It didn't hurt her.

We've got some more music for you from the Montrose Symphonic Band. Also, I want to remind you we've got a lot of calls from folks that want that KPFT program guide. It's hot off the presses. It's out there in the lobby now steaming. We'll be glad to send you a copy of that absolutely free so you can keep abreast of what's coming up next right here on KPFT.

Also along with that, we'll send you absolutely free of-- and with no obligation, no one will visit your house. No homosexual will come to your home. We'll send you a copy of our After Hours poster. You've seen it all over the Montrose area. It's a beautiful poster that a friend of mine did for us and tells about radio celebrating life from the heart of the Montrose, which is what we're all about. And I understand the guys will throw in a T-shirt from the Montrose Symphony Band so--

Maybe we will.

--you can give us a call if you'd like to get that right now by calling us at 526-4000. We got more music from the band. And this is from that concert recorded at the Tower Theater, right Jeff?

That's right. And it's a number by Scott Joplin, "The Entertainer."
