And so his office clearly exerted strong pressure on the Republican caucus in the Iowa House to help him avoid having to make that tough decision. If even half of the Republicans who indicated to me during my vocab that they were inclined to vote for this bill had actually done so it would have passed. And I have to believe, you know, knowing some of these people on on a fairly friendly basis, that there's some people who aren't feeling very good about themselves. But you know, I was in the balcony, I was able to watch the Republican leadership going from desk to desk and exerting very strong pressure during the couple of hours that this bill was on the floor. I think it's very unfortunate. It does a real discredit to the political process to have such a, a basic issue as fundamental fairness for a group of citizens be made into a partisan issue,

01:00

historically, I

01:01

mean, how many times does every bill have to be introduced? And every every time it's introduced, there's a little bit more chipping away at every civil rights struggle, including this one has a history that suggests that pure doggedness plays a large role in ultimately being able to succeed. And, you know, it's not common as a lobbyist to be pushing to bring a piece of legislation to the floor that you think is going to lose. Usually, that's viewed as a bad move. And yet, that was the position I've been in for about a week, I knew that we were in trouble. And yet I pushed and pushed and pushed for the for time to bring this bill up. Because I think it's necessary for kind of, you know, the evolving public pressure to not bury this to not, you know, go away until that moment when everything is fine. And you have all the votes I think we're just have to keep running it up over and over again. And eventually we're going to win in the mind that was Michael, current legislative director of Iowa dignity and equality advocates step by step by step can be one to many. See, Lina and by you. See, save, save, save, save, save. Whenever we try to deal with anti discrimination legislation, the defenders of the status quo engage in the most outrageous distortion of what will happen if the bill passes. You have this with the Equal Rights Amendment. You had it with the civil rights restoration act, the right wingers, the Jerry foul wells and others engage in conscious distortion because these people may be morally quite unattractive to us, but they're not morons. And you would have to be literally a moron to believe some of the things that they believe but they get people who aren't paying a lot of attention and say to them, oh, if you pass this or that any discrimination law, all these terrible things will happen. When dynamite talks nonsense, no one in Washington takes Bill dynamite seriously. But when you have Pete Wilson veto, again as human rights bill that reverberates that says damage or the Republican governor of Maine, John mckernon, again, a member of the moderate republican wing. And when a gay rights bill was about to pass the Maine legislature, he announced in advance that he would veto it, which led towards being killed because members said, well now why bother with it? And that is the problem. Even people who have an instinct to be pro gay within the Republican Party, find it is very, very difficult, which once again, an example of the any game that has been pressures that reverberate in the Republican Party.

02:00

02:07

04:17

That flashback from part two of our interview with Barney Frank takes on increased meaning in view of the defeat of the Iowa gay lesbian civil rights bill. In the concluding part of Brett Gordon's conversation with the Massachusetts representative and author of speaking frankly, what's wrong with the Democrats and how to fix it. Barney provides additional insights from his politically pragmatic perspective.

04:41

In Congress, you are aware of people that are still in the closet?

04:45

Yes, obviously I talk to people it's a shared thing. And I let me say I don't say this critically of anyone I did not publicly acknowledge being gay until I was 47 years and three months old, and I waited long enough and I waited until I was pretty don't know is secure in my job. So I have no criticism to make of other people. I do think it is very helpful when people do do it. I think we benefit a lot because the end game guys being prejudiced is based so much on unreality, so much on inaccuracy, that when people meet real life, gay men and lesbians, when they meet friends, and co workers and relatives, and others, that they respect and admire, perhaps, and find out that they are gay and lesbian. Every time that happens, a piece of that stereotype gets gets chewed away. And that's, of course, our ultimate goal. As far as people coming out, I have one friend in Congress who I think would like to come out, he has been very much a supportive vote in Congress. It's not easy for him politically, and a lot of other ways. Beyond that, I'm afraid I don't see anybody who is about to do it. In the hallways in Congress, whether someone who's out or not, is a generally known among your colleagues, who is and who isn't not as much as you might think. I was very surprised to have one particular friend who's gay, telling me that a committee chairman said to him, you know, you better be careful about fooling around with women. And he said, I assured him that I would be very careful about that. There are a couple of people who are generally known to be gay or lesbian. There are some others who are and people aren't sure, the level of knowledge is probably less than you think, let me say, one of the problems we run into is a sort of a sophisticated form of opposition, which says, Well, I don't mind you being gay, or lesbian, or black, or a woman or a member of some other distinct group. But I'm afraid that if you're elected, that's all you're worried about. And if you are in office first, that's so demonstrably untrue. They don't use it against you. But I will say with regard to people who have come out once elected, or people who have been out before I did, which is a more recent phenomenon, at the state, legislative and city council level, we have collectively a very good record of getting reelected, coming out has rarely led to the defeat of anybody on the Democratic side. When I came out, when Gary SAJE came out, the people who are most offended by that will probably people didn't vote for us anyway, they will probably be very conservative people who disagree with our views on abortion, or health care or reducing the military budget. Gay Republicans who come out are very much at risk, because the anti gay feeling on the Republican side is so strong, that none of them have been able to win a primary. And again, that goes back to I guess what I was trying to hit out in my book, which is people I think, have to work on two tracks. One try to make if you're on the liberal side, try to make the Democratic Party better. But it is self defeating to punish the Democratic Party for not yet being good enough. When the alternative is a much, much worse Republican Party. I believe that what's happening is the Democratic Party is moving more to the center in terms of his rhetoric, but not in terms of its issues. And I think that's very important. We have to be willing to say that people who commit crime, people who hit other people over the head, who take other people's hard won property at gunpoint, they are bad people, they should be locked up. We Democrats have felt Oh, we better not say that. I think we aren't I will say that the role the United States played in the world, certainly in Western Europe, in holding back the Soviets was a very morally worthwhile role. People in Hungary and Poland and Ukraine and Belarus and Czechoslovakia are today grateful to the United States military, because it helped hold back oppression so that natural forces can undo it. That's the kind of thing I'm talking about. I'm not talking about backing away from the rights of women, from spending more on housing from improving the transportation system. I want to cut the military budget in half and free up those funds. But I want to describe what we want to do in a way that emphasizes our connection to the middle voters, I don't want constantly to be told that you've got to calibrate your rhetoric in a way that will make the left field the most emotionally happy. My friends on the left, we're not talking to you. Now, we and you agree on many of these issues, please allow us to frame our rhetoric in terms of appeal to them in our head. So my gay friends say, Well, we're very unhappy. There's not enough talk about our issues in this campaign. But why should that be? The purpose of the campaign is to win over people in the middle. It is not to give each other constant reinforcement. And that's the dilemma that I think we have to break out of.

05:51

05:59

09:36

I've been talking with Barney Frank, he's the author of a book just come out speaking frankly, what's wrong with the Democrats and how to fix it published by times books, a division of Random House, and the book is dedicated to my lover and my mother. They are two separate people that I talk in the book about how I think gay and lesbian rights should be handled, and to do that without explicitly acknowledging that I'm gay. They might mislead some people

09:45

11:15

Stay tuned.

11:22

Okay, we're back. We're sitting here arguing about who was late and who wasn't and why they were late and why they're why they were on time. And we're talking about the glad to be gay survey that Ann Landers did in the in the paper last Monday, April 27. No, this is when the survey was ended. She asked her some weeks ago, I saw the Ann Landers article I don't know why hardly ever. Just something grabbed me, you know, the head, the bold print or something grabbed me and it's was about being gay. So I read it. And she was addressing someone who written a letter. And the person asked, Could gay people really be happy? And what Ann Landers decided to do? And this is what she wrote was to have people have people write in and take a survey kind of in voice. Sherry. Does anybody know how to pronounce your last name? Okay, we'll just leave it with Sherry, who's the editor of the Montrose voice and Deborah Darnay Darby terminate. Okay. Anyway, we are going to talk a little bit about the response to that letter. In a article that I've been reading it says that, that Ann Landers and her people got more mail than in the columns 37 year history over this one piece. In another article I read it said that she got 75,000 pieces of mail answering this survey, she asked if people were gay, and I understand that the percentage was 30 to one that we were happy being gay. What do you think? Damn 30 to one so what was who was that one? Happy? Happy campers. Right? Is that like the old masturbation thing? 99% do it the other 1% lie about it? I always love the stuff all first of all,

13:36

it wasn't just 30 to 13:37

135 4045 No, I'm just kidding. No, it was they turned out the letters this impression 75,000 letters that 30 to one people were happy being gay. What about you, Mary? And we were just having an interesting and interesting discussion before we joined What do you think your head? What do I 31?

14:04

Are we happy people anybody's unhappy?

...the happy people my way - unhappy - 14:07

Are we happy people? Yeah, what they were taught 14:11

to hey, I don't I don't think you can be or you shouldn't be unhappy with who you are.

14:18

Hello, that's voice voice sound so good. Before we know it sounds fine.

14:24

Somebody else told you to be unhappy. Yeah.

14:26

What do you think Nancy? Nancy Ford has joined us ladies and gentlemen. Hey, Betty Ford is here. Hey, party may begins. beat my behind cool. I want y'all know this.

14:35

14:39

Light like I am the happiest gay billiards player in Houston this evening. As matter of fact, in fact, 29 of the women that I beat in billiards this evening 30 to 130 I don't know at least 30 of my ex lovers are still pretty Happy. I don't know. I have like 30 Happy to one like disgruntled and storing away like major and arsons resentment and an arsenal half of guns and gun can guns. She shouldn't live near you do because no, she lives in LA. So you can imagine what her can imagine.

15:11

15:15

15:22

Yes, I can imagine she's pretty 15:24

California scream and Whoa. Yeah. What were we talking about?

15:28

Glad to be gay the Ann Landers and landers and landers in that a funny place to be, first of all, it's a funny place for for it to be showing up. But, you know, what? Did you see the 2020? The 2020? Where they are? I don't know, maybe it was 48 hours for the for the 2020 where the guy had to cure for homosexuality? Oh, no. Okay, waiting. Wait a minute. What if you don't want to be cured? What if you like it this way? And we were talking before you got here about people who think we're, we're child molesters? Nobody asked me if I wanted to be this way.

15:38

15:57

16:04

16:07

People who are child molesters? And we were talking earlier than most people? Yeah, 99% of the time, these people who do these terrible things that were blamed straight people. I also I also point out to people who, you know, characterize us being happy and, you know, dealing with on the radio station here and reaching out to a wide spectrum of people that we're trying to recruit. And I'd like to say to those people, we don't have to recruit we have volunteers, volunteers. Line lineup full. We cannot take cannot take them all. There's so many volunteers. Diane is back. Great. I'm just buzzing Diane through the door here.

16:53

euphemism at the very best.

16:55

Right. Well, I wanted to add that the end of this article at the end of this article and also said that it her it's her belief that it's a genetic thing, that it's not a it's not an environmental or social thing. But that being gay is genetic, and that that some people can how did she put it? She said some people did you read the article? Jamie? You didn't read it? Did you read a scooter? Only the no nonsense font? So yeah, that was it. I haven't been the response. At the very end, she said that she believed that it wasn't environmentally induced, and that it was genetic, and that there was something else anyway, she so thank you and thank you for all right. Do it as a favor here next time shove 75,000 letters into my sister Abby's box for one.

17:46

17:53

Well, there's there's something I don't understand about the 2020 interview. Right? They have this this guy who had he got married to this woman and then had kids you know, and I thought Big whoop dee doo ejaculated and this woman a few times she had 18:12

Jimmy's check in the finger man she had she had a few kids whoopee doo, the guy is still gay has their phones are lighting up? You know, I just I simply still don't understand. But the guy still said well, I still kind of you know, get these feelings about guys every so often. But you know, I try my hardest to push them to push them way back. And it's incredible.

18:14

18:37

denialists now not just a river in Egypt. That's right.

18:40

Well, what was it the two guys in the what was that group that tries to change homosexuals around homosexual anonymous or something? It turned out that you know, you've heard of that group. One that Jimmy Swaggart and Jimmy Baker that was the ones know that this group had these two men who were ex homosexuals this group was had these two men who were ex homosexuals leading the group the fight to change homosexuals around and they went off to a conference and oxy wait wait, they went off to a conference and while they were the conference they discovered that they were not ex homosexuals anymore

19:17

because they said or o'clock in the conference

19:22

with each other told these people that homosexual anonymous that they had been wrong all these years they were persecuting homosexuals. I just thought I just thought and uh, you know what I really just, I just hope that they are so bitchy with each other for all the all the good that they've done.

19:40

I hope I had time choosing their China pattern at Walgreens. I really do.

19:45

Yes. Well, we're gonna play a song called Give me a homosexual by Romanovsky and Phillips and we're gonna go to that right now.

20:02

Okay, we're on now let's do it. I'm learning how to push which green and red button. So if we seem a little confused, it's not because we are it's because the green and red buttons are confused. I wanted to write I wanted to talk a minute about salmon berries that movie with k.d. lang. That'll be it was on the other night and I've talked to a few people. Diane, you saw the movie? I did. It was great with k.d. k.d. So those who are not sure. Oh, god, okay. Wait, hold it. Hold it. This is KPFT This is the after hours. Continuing tradition. KPFT Houston. 90.1. Yes. And you can hear and you can reach us at 526 4000. For those of you who are panic stricken with the all the lines are busy, you can call back right now five to six 4000 and tell us what you think Metro six to be four or 5000. Or you can write us at 419 Love it. Houston and that's Oh 6419 Love it. It's all math to me, Tom it to you. So Diane. Good. Scoot up to a mic here and talk to me about salmon berries. did. Did I speak to you about this before it before it happened here? Do we talk about salmon bears? You and I? I'm not sure whether we did maybe it was talked about salmon berries. We talked about it briefly on the way to the mastery, I believe.

21:36

It was really good. It was very good. Maybe 21:39

tell me about the premise. I mean, I don't want you to tell me about every premise of 21:43

the movie is that k.d. lang is is very androgynous. Go figure.

21:50

Now, there's a stretch, stretch, KD stretch, very 21:57

androgynous person who works in Alaska. And she's she has a problem with communication, especially in the beginning of the movie. And she goes and she has this crush, or this obsession or whatever with this woman who's German born. And the movie is set in Alaska. And it's about her meeting with this German woman and trying to communicate and trying to find out who they are trying to find out, you know, looking for your own roots and your own identity. And they go to Germany, they go to Berlin and in the aftermath of the tearing down of the Berlin Wall. So it does have a plot and it does get intense. At moments. It's at the the International Film Festival right at the Museum of Fine Art. Right. And it was it was very good movie. We had ballots that said, you know, do you like this movie? And if you do, do you think it's a one or a 10 being 10 being the best and I looked in there and all those lesbians popping that 10 Now, play doesn't really have 10 which is a 10 it was k.d. laying naked. Yes. It's true. It happens.

23:07

So she is a woman real real naked and real pleasant. Thank you. Well, I read somewhere someone said if your if her sexual. Id was in doubt this movie would clear it all up. Oh, yeah.

23:20

Was it in doubt?

23:22

Somebody said that. But is she happy? Is she happy? She's a lot happier now than she was the first time Well, I'm going I'll be there tomorrow night at seven o'clock myself. So those of you who are interested that that would be a good place to be tomorrow night at seven o'clock to see salmon berries. k.d. lang, k.d. lang's movie be at Museum of Fine Arts. Too many drinks Dan and finger point four. Yes. And I'm dance had too many. Right James had too much tonight. I'd like to take a moment and be a little sloppy here. One of the things I'm going to do with the tape, Jimmy, Jimmy makes a copy of tapes of the show every time that we do a show. And one of the things I'm going to do with this next tape is I'm going to send it to my mom and dad. So I'd like to tack this little dedication on to my mom and dad who made mistakes that I'll have to pay for but I know that I know. Love ya. Love. Yeah, I know that they did the best that they could. So it would have been touching here. Geez. Smack that woman around. God. Do we have a record? Do have something on cue here. I'm losing control this chaos here. I never had control. It was just an illusion. No, I'm kidding. I'm kidding. It's okay. Want to remind people that Kate Clinton will be here on the 17th Who's got tickets? Okay, I'm okay then because I've been calling every day. Nobody better tickets before me. I've been Call it Inklings everyday you can get tickets and Inklings. And no, they haven't printed them yet. Oh, for some reason. Well, that's what I told him. I said, Put me on list. No, they're not taking the list. Anyway, so Kate Clinton, who's an international comedian, because I know she's in Canada and she's down in Mexico once in a while international dating service she made my personal hero really? Who is the National Gay Lesbian Taskforce?

25:29

I'm impressed. I'm impressed.

35:23

and I thought I was safe if I cut all red meat out of my diet

35:27

Okay, there will be a pool tournament 5pm to whenever also there'll be somebody there in Lena to read your fortune. I'm not sure exactly what method she uses, but that sounds like a lot of fun. It says personal services, auction and merchandise. God only knows what that means. 8pm to 10pm there will be a variety show. So head on down to genties

35:47

Okay, let's see we we only have 45 minutes to shoot guys. Let's see if we can figure out the talk about what's what's good tomorrow night. Yeah. What's gonna be the movies. The BRB was having 36:02

something real important things happening

36:06

at the ranch. Wait, wait, wait, wait one one at a time one at a time at the ranch.

36:10

between four and 8pm There'll be a blood drive sponsored by Texas leather and lace. That's a women's leather and lace group.

36:22

Didn't they do that last week? I think it's this week to this week to great great Sure. I don't know but if you can afford to buy if you can afford to buy go out to the ranch they can. They could use one. So go ahead and give your blood if you have a few minutes stopping for the ranch and Donita was last week and I'm totally just can well, we can't Thanks. Go to your local bank and donate the name of the ranch. Exactly. You can donate in the name of Texas leather and lace leather and lace. Great, great.

36:23

36:27

36:46

36:49

36:51

I was talking to you about what's going on tomorrow night at the BRB and we're gearing Care Center as a beneficiary of something right. Is that right? Or is it right and mass the mastery mastery is bearing and bearing tomorrow night to be or be at seven o'clock wasn't right right. I don't have any idea. It was one that was telling no I was telling no steak night earlier you someone said seven o'clock and I said oh but steak night at the planning meeting is the masteries have been is a beneficiary of what okay, what's it called? What's 37:24

37:01

37:18

it called? There we go. The Beatles.

37:28

There it is. That's what friends are for. It's a kickoff party for That's what friends are. When 37:32

is that? Tomorrow? Tomorrow? Sunday, 37:34

May 3 from six to 8pm.

37:36

I'm hosting it.

37:39

It's a good thing. It's a good thing we let you know one time.

37:44

Six, six to eight. I hope I'm good.

37:48

She's good. She will be folks she will be okay. No Aisha. Let her read her information. Okay, so that's the BRB tomorrow

38:00

38:00

was the 15th Bunch of Larry Garrett is listening. Would you call in and let us know when this is? Sure friends are four is 38:07

38:06

at that 13

38:08

This is just a kickoff fundraiser party to get some extra bucks rolling in.

38:12

I know that's what we'll discuss this later. Also, what we're talking about here is a big fundraiser big big time. Big time black tie out at the Westin Galleria on June 13. It is that's what friends are for three. This is the third year we're raising funds for various aids charities. It's going to be a lot of fun. The to two honorary honorees, if you will. Yeah, thank you. I am so articulate will be Liza Minnelli you've heard of her. And Dr. Adan Rios
