Yeah, Tom Robinson from England with roaring offers his 1995 album Love over rage. And while we're on the subject of England, we'd have to do something by Elton. He had a wonderful album this year called Made in England and the title cut talks about him being openly gay and growing up gay. That's not the cut I'm going to do though. You've heard that on other radio stations. There's another song on here a beautiful song that I want to dedicate to someone I truly love and miss from this show and from my life. Evelyn Carol. You may remember her about a year ago she moved with her lover to Portland. She sometimes hits town but she's not here for this Christmas season and I sure do miss her and for for Evelyn Elton John. Yes, Elton John Belfast that's off of his made an England album. A really good album if, if you happen to like Elton John. We were talking a little while ago about groups with queer members. And Thomas in the 1960 area called in and said, Hey, how about REM you bet Michael Stipe is as bisexuals they come? I mean, what else can he say? To convince the world everybody's so interested in his sexuality? But not only is he bisexual, but if if you check out a lot of gay and lesbian artists have been helped by Michael, either they've written music they that he's done or are I mean, he's written music that they've done or he is produced their records, or he's he's played background, something. He's really hard working and he's there for the community. So my favorite REM song is this one. Oh, yeah, Rem How about let's get back to some local groups. Some local queers that wouldn't come up. Oh, they're, they're a perennial favorite. And this is my favorite one that they do. It's a remake of an old Roy Orbison. Love that the late great Michael Callen. That was one of the first songs I've ever heard on after hours when I was sitting at home, listening to buddy Johnston, do this show. That was back in early 1988. And actually, I only listened to the show once because the next week, I came up here. And I never left. And I'm glad I just had to get some Michael Callen and because he means a lot to this show. Actually, buddy Johnston meets a lot to the show because he he was originator of of after hours. And we were supposed to get together today and do something and we missed each other. So we'll be doing that later. If I have time, I want to get in a special mix that that buddy did. But right now, I want to do kind of a female answer to love don't need a reason. Which was done by this year by Janice Ian on her revenge album. It takes it it's saying the same thing. It just says it a little differently. It's called Take no prisoners and you're listening to it on after hours square radio with attitude on KPFT Houston and KEOS College Station Bryan our feature presentation I know what you're thinking did he fire six shots or only five? Well, I'll tell you the truth and all this excitement I've kind of lost track myself. But the in this is a 44 Magnum, the most powerful handgun in the world and would blow your head clean off. You've got to ask yourself one question. Do I feel lucky? Well, do you punk?

And welcome to the return of the sons of musical chairs with the Billy and Randy bringing in we're starting new year's eve early today. And actually we're doing a public service announcement all morning long. We're actually trying trying to give people a warning here and you'll be able to figure it out. I think just keep listening and send in the money No. Before it's too late before we have to ask you for it.
