There was a crippling disease that no amount of medical research can cure. No amount of fundraising by telethons can prevent a disease most often transmitted from parent to child, and unchecked in its early stages can be fatal. The disease is called racism. Its early symptom is the belief that one's racial group is somehow superior to others. In advanced stages, the symptoms of racism are violence, death and destruction, a cure however it exists. It's a nonsurgical change of heart. It takes time, effort and understanding compassion, forgiveness, respect. Let us agree today that in our homes, in our hearts and in our lives, we will all promote and encourage racial harmony, unity and understanding this message in support of racial unity was brought to you by the by faith

 05:21
Good morning. This is the after hours report. I'm Jeff Mackay. Although he's unopposed for reelection District Judge Jack Hampton has received more than $30,000 in supporter since July, the largest amount for an uncontested judicial race in Dallas County. Hampton sparked a national uproar 14 months ago, when he gave a 30 year sentence rather than a life sentence to the killer of two gay people. He later explained that he gave the lighter sentence because the victims were gay and had been quote out cruising the streets picking up teenage boys and the judges remarks prompted the state investigation that ended in his official Center last year. National Gay and civil rights groups denounced the remarks and called for his immediate dismissal. Hampton has received campaign donations from 323 people. Only two of 81 candidates for Judge or justice of the peace in the county have raised more during the same same reporting period. Supporters called Hamptons characterization of the two gay murder victims as queers a minor incident that hardly blemishes record. Some of the people who donated donated from 10 to $1,000. To Hamptons campaign say they see him as one of the fairest judges on the Dallas County bench. The names project quilt will make only one Texas stop on his 1990 tour and it will be in San Antonio in mid June. Donna faith MCC and the affiliate of the universal fellowship of Metropolitan Community churches and formerly MCC Galveston well dedicate its new home this Sunday February 25. In ceremonies beginning at 10:15am. The new location of the churches south of hobby airport on Fuqua Street at the corner of telephone road at the east end of rice shopping center. The address is 10 595 telephone road and the new phone number is 713-991-6766. The dedication and blessing of the new facility will be done by the UF MCC south central district coordinator, Mr. Clark Friesen who will also deliver the sermon. After unsuccessful outreach in Galveston the church moved to the Sagemont subdivision of Houston and established a parallel Texas post office box. While there the churches experienced a renewal and growth bringing in new members from its service area. Montrose Counseling Center has received two new grants for its HIV AIDS program, design industries Foundation for AIDS Diffa has just notified the center's Executive Director and Robeson that they are awarding $13,500 to the center's HIV AIDS Project. These funds are to be used to counsel anyone who is HIV positive and cannot afford the center's regular fee. Counseling along with regular medical care can help reduce stress and increase quality of life. The center has also received a $25,720 grant from the Texas Department of Health through the Greater Houston AIDS Alliance for case management, counseling and nutritional education. The case management portion of the grant is part of a larger program of the Health Resources Administration project. AIDS care would be covered 100% For many insured people here under a plan proposed by an agency charged with coordinating such care in Houston in Harris County. That Coordinating Group the Greater Houston AIDS Alliance Wednesday outline the bare bones of the contract it intends to present to the Houston Area Health Care Coalition, a group of 54 local corporations and 100 associate organizations. Officials of the Alliance stressed is a preliminary document meant to generate discussion about the proposal. The Coalition and Alliance however, have met in the past to discuss the concept and the coalition is already inclined to support the plan said Executive Director Sandra person. The AIDS Alliance was formed last year after the Houston Harris County aids panel decided the coordinating agency was needed to oversee provision of care and to provide guidance in grant applications and to administer grant funds. And that's all for the after hours report this morning. Are you finished? Finished? That's all right. Roger was asking me if we were looking for a song and I said yeah, we're looking for a song by the Judy's called the grass is greener, but we don't have it. So we'll play it next week. Hey, thanks for coming. It just seems weird because none of the rest of them are here. Everybody's gone. Anyway, we'll be back in a minute. Right? Right. Right. Oh, hang on. back

I'm here partly tonight to say some good things about Texas. I'm proud to be I know that I could not have heard Harvey Milk challenge to me, had not something in my life, this state prepared me to hear the word of freedom that Harvey spoke to us. I am here tonight, because it is time that all of us who love this state that gave us life, and has nurtured us and taught us our values, to stand up and claim the history of the state for freedom and justice and human respect, away from the forces of narrow mindedness and bigotry, that too often dominates the politics of the state of Texas.

We all grow and learn our lives. And I've learned that all kinds of people can get eight.

11:26

We're going to file libel Action Against Time Magazine, Newsweek magazine, NBC television news, and the Washington Post.

11:36

It kind of felt like describing something to a shrink in a room full of people with 100 Press, people with their little boom boxes and flashing cameras all on you while you're telling the President in a one to one situation, something that he knows already, or at least he should know.

11:54

This is Lucia Chapelle. And Greg Gordon, and you're listening to this way out the international lesbian and gay radio magazine on after hours right here on Pacifica radio 90.1 FM KPFT Houston. Welcome to this way out the international lesbian and gay radio magazine. I'm Lucia Chapelle.

12:01

12:13

And I'm Greg Gordon. US census to recognize unmarried couples. landuse readers are advised to relent. And I can tell by the Secret Service. There's a meeting here tonight, all that and even more because you've discovered this way out.

Pokey Anderson 12:34

I'm Sandy Dwyer and I'm Donald Herman. With news wrap a summary of some of the news in and affecting the gay and lesbian community for the weekend in February 18 1990. The National Gay and Lesbian Task Force is urging gay and lesbian couples to list themselves as unmarried partners in the 1990 United States Census which will be distributed in March. The 1990 census will be the first in which people can identify themselves as unmarried couples who live together. The taskforce says that getting an accurate count of the number of such couples will help efforts to gain legal protections for gay and lesbian relationships.

11 Episcopal priests in Michigan have vowed to seek the dismissal of father Zalman Sherwood, if he doesn't stop blessing lesbian gay couples. Sherwood said same sex couples cannot be married under church doctrine, but he does offer prayers for fidelity in those relationships. The 11 priests charges could result in an ecclesiastical trial of Sherwood and as possible dismissal.

Pokey Anderson 13:32

Gay and lesbian groups in Boston have said they will oppose Boston University President John Silver's bid for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Massachusetts. Silver has long opposed including sexual orientation in the university's anti discrimination statement. Jeff nickel, president of the school's Lesbian and Gay Alliance referred to silver as one of the most uncaring inhuman people I have ever had the displeasure of being associated with.

13:59

In this week's health crisis news. The lifting of the iron curtain has exposed previously unacknowledged AIDS cases. Former US President Ronald Reagan has again assumed his familiar 1980s role of official spokesperson and current US President George Bush has refused an invitation to attend the sixth International AIDS Conference. Mary van clay has the details on these stories.

14:21

Hysterical fear over AIDS has hit Poland in Warsaw, a crowd of about 150 people gathered outside and AIDS hospice, shouting obscenities and threatening to burn down the building. The health ministry had to evacuate the five people inside. Lawrence Weschler who writes about Poland for The New Yorker magazine says the mobs mood may have resulted partly from the desperate situation many polls face as their new government makes a crash transition to a free market economy.

14:47

The body politic as a whole is in a state of emotional nervous collapse. I think it's aggravated in Poland by the fact that for a long time, the communist regime wanted to insist there wasn't any pays in Poland, there are at least 600 registered cases of AIDS in Poland and the disease is expected to spread especially among the country's large population of intravenous drug users. The World Health Organization this week sent a team of experts to Romania to analyze an AIDS epidemic among children. They're about a third of the sick toddlers tested in Romanian hospitals and orphanages are carrying the virus. Doctor speculate that the children received tainted blood transfusions or injections with syringes that had been used hundreds of times. The man whose presidency coincided with the outbreak of the AIDS epidemic has finally broken years of near silence on the subject. Ronald Reagan has just produced a public service announcement for the Pediatric AIDS Foundation, stressing compassion for people with the disease.

15:01

11 15:01

15:46

We all grow and learn or live. And I've learned that all kinds of people can get AIDS. Even Sure, but it's the disease that's frightening, not the people who have it. You can catch AIDS from hugging someone. I'm not asking you to send money. I'm asking for something more important. Your understanding. Maybe it's time we all learned something new.

16:09

Some say the statement is Reagan's way of apologizing for his lack of action against the disease during his presidency. That plenty of Reagan watchers are skeptical. Professor Michael Rogan teaches political science at the University of California at Berkeley and has written a book entitled Ronald Reagan the movie, he says the ad surprises and puzzles him because he's managed to be cheerful about people dying and not taking responsibility for it at the same time, making it seem like he has some kind of compassion as especially dealing Rock Hudson died. That seemed to be working fine for him. But

16:28

16:41

Rogan adds the statement is easier for Reagan to make now keto longer has to be responsible, for example, for spending a lot more money to fight this. So in that sense, it doesn't commit them to anything.

16:45

16:52

Meanwhile, President George Bush this week turned down an invitation to speak at the sixth International Conference on AIDS scheduled for this June in San Francisco. Some organizers say they're not surprised. As Vice President in 1987, Bush was met with jeers at the conference in they're not surprised. As vice President in 1987, Bush was met with jeers at the conference in Washington DC as he discussed the Reagan administration's plans for mandatory AIDS testing of immigrants and prison inmates. Bush's decision this year marks the first time in three years that the leader of the meetings host nation will not address the assembly in San Francisco. I'm Mary van clay.

The Washington State House of Representatives has narrowly passed the measure to extend anti discrimination protections to lesbians and gay men. The measure applies to credit housing, employment, insurance and public accommodations. Governor booth Gardner has endorsed the bill but it is not expected to pass in the State Senate.

Meanwhile, Rhode Island State Senator Sean Coffey said he'll introduce a measure that would ban anti gay and lesbian bias in housing, employment, credit and public accommodations. similar bills were defeated in the State House of Representatives in 1988 and 1989. But coffee said that introducing the measure in the state senate first might give it the impetus it needs for passage.

P

Pokey Anderson 18:08

And in South Dakota, a lesbian and gay rights measure was defeated in the State House of Representatives judiciary committee by a vote of 12 to one, the bill would have added gays and lesbians to the state civil rights ordinance.

18:21

The Iowa State Senate Judiciary Committee has approved a hate crimes bill that would toughen penalties for attacks that are motivated by hatred based on race, religion, sexual orientation or other characteristics. The next stop for the bill is the full state senate.

Several major US news publications and at least one television network may have to account for the accuracy of their reporting about the explosion aboard the USS Iowa last year. The blast killed 47 sailors and was originally attributed to an alleged homosexual relationship aboard ship. Michael BD reports.

In May of 1989 press reports leaked from a navy investigation linked done as made Tyndall true it to the sailor alleged to have sabotage the gun Correct. Subsequent investigations and hearings failed to probe the rumors and accountable true it was never charged. While the exact hearings failed to probe the rumors and accountable due it was never charged. While the exact cause of the explosion was never determined. However, the press reports at the time hinted at a homosexual liaison between Pruitt and his friend who died in the explosion. Attorney Ellis Rubin blames what he describes as irresponsible reporting for his clients loss of reputation. Sources close to my office. Tell me that we're going to file libel actions against Time Magazine, Newsweek magazine, NBC Television News and The Washington Post for what they said and printed without corroboration, and which turned out to be false. And the effect has been deadly. Sadie Ellis says the multimillion dollar suit will be filed at some future date in US District Court in Miami and may include other defendants. He says the naval investigative services may also be named. That's the federal office that is alleged to have leaked the original press reports. Ruben says he hopes this suit will assist other individuals in the future who may find themselves the object of reports in the press, which are based on only one unreliable anonymous source. He says to that extent, he expects this to be a precedent setting case. This is Michael Beatty in Tampa.

20:36

The Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin has voted not to kick the Reserve Officers Training Corps chapters off campus. The school's faculty was asking for the expulsion of ROTC to protest the US military's policy against gays and lesbians in the armed forces. The university president Kenneth Shaw called instead for an aggressive lobbying effort to reverse the military policy.

Pokey Anderson 20:58

And finally, officials at Arlington Heights High School in Fort Worth, Texas, are blocking the student newspaper from taking a student survey about lesbian and gay issues. The students said one reason they are interested in the topic is because 12 Air Force personnel at a nearby base were recently discharged for alleged homosexuality. After meeting with school officials, Angela Sweeney, editor of the school paper complained that it sounded like they just wanted fluff.

21:30

That's news rep for the weekend in February 18 1990, written by Jim Schrader, national news editor of the advocate with contributions from other gay and lesbian publications and broadcasts throughout the world.

Pokey Anderson 21:42

Remember, and informed community is a strong community. Find out what's happening in your area by monitoring your local gay and lesbian media for this way out. I'm Sandy Dwyer, and I'm Donald Herman.

21:53

22:01

You're listening to naming names for regular broadcast the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation, alerting you to dangerous media images that which misrepresent the lives of lesbians and gay men. Keep paper and pencil handy. In a few minutes, I'll be giving you the names and addresses of where to write and fight back some months ago, and Landers in one of our daily advice columns asked her readers what they thought about the question should gay couples be allowed to marry? Since then she's printed a sampling of the answers. Predictably, many of them are vicious and homophobic. As one reader later put it, I was shocked by the intensity of the hatred reflected in your mail. It's not enough for some people to be opposed to the idea. They felt compelled to label homosexuals diseased, perverted and fruitcakes this past week, and finally came out with her own opinion. How do I vote? She asked, Should homosexuals be allowed to marry? No, she answered, but a long term monogamous relationship should be entitled to legal sanctions. It's unfair that same sex couples who live together do not have tax benefits, housing breaks, hospital visiting privileges, corporate health insurance coverage and Social Security death benefits. This has nothing to do with sex, morality, religion or personal bias. It has to do with decency and fairness. To thank Ann Landers for her well thought out counsel and to express your own opinion on the subject right to her and care of the newspaper where you read her column. naming names is a regular feature of the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation. If you see or hear any anti lesbian or anti gay defamation, please let us know. And send us copies of any letters you may send or receive in connection with naming names. Right declared at Varick Street. Number three, New York New York 1013 Or give us a call at 212966 1700 This is Dr. Henry aka for glad and we'll talk to you later.

24:10

You're listening to this way out the international lesbian and gay radio magazine. With Lucia Chappelle. I'm Greg Gordon. Nation, that's America. Nothing really changing. It's just something that we say to the children we all wish for nothing. On Friday, December 22 1989, just three days before Christmas. Six gay men with AIDS or HIV infection met with us wasn't George Bush and First Lady Barbara Bush at the National Institutes of Health Clinical Center in Bethesda, Maryland, in what has been described as the first acknowledgment by the President in a face to face meeting of the unique impact that AIDS is having on the lesbian and gay community. Dr. Ramin Lyle, a native of Glasgow, Scotland, originally came to the United States to do postdoctoral cancer research in 1983. Ironically, at the National Institutes of Health, he's now participating in clinical trials of experimental drugs at the National Institutes of Health. And he was one of the six gay men at the meeting with President and Mrs. Bush, arranged by NIH is Dr. Anthony Fauci. Dr. Lisle describes the meeting and George Bush's reaction to it. In a conversation with Alan Roth.

The host scenario lasted like four hours previous to the actual meeting with George Bush we had gathered together in the rooms for security reasons. And for two hours, it was like a scene from 12 Angry Men were Antony Fauci was there, going over again and again, how we should appear, how we shouldn't appear, or what we shouldn't really say. He was kinda like the talk show host. He was kind of filled on issue, although it was really his big show of his show. He was He loved it. The purpose of Fauci is performance here was to ensure continued federal funding. Yeah, that's right. He warned us before Bush is afraid of Banner waving gays, I activist, so called activist type people who wave banners and scream. He was a little concerned that perhaps we would be a little too belligerent. He told us, you know, the President does not like to be talked down to and he said, Don't give the President a shopping list. Don't give him a list of your demand. Don't even mention anything like a revamping of the health system. nationalized medical system, such as they have in Britain, and he wasn't being nasty. He really it was an all men in a gentle way of scripters. He and he actually, we had a little dry run before it and we pretended the President was there. And this kind of thing went on for like two and a half hours before the President actually arrived. I want to get to your interaction with President vote. She initially turned to me as a pre appointed spokesperson and said, No, Ray, why don't you tell the President what it's like to be a person with AIDS. So I launched into my description of my fears, my fears of isolation, my fears of Discrimination and Employment in healthcare services, my fear of losing my health insurance, the stigma of the disease that each person with HIV has to face and has to have the strength to face and how we get round the bigots basically how we fight the system that are trying to treat us like third class citizens. I didn't say that to President Bush. I was I use nice words I should have used stronger words perhaps but I was very polite in my British way. And after my my maybe one and a half minute discourse, President Bush sucked on the end of his spectacle leg the glare off his glasses and turn to me and he said well, while Ray Do you think do you think we need some some more education? Do you think some educational take care of this? And this was with his this tired face and the eyes which I tried forever to gain contact of, but seemed to be drifting, drifting everywhere in the room but but looking at me on I'm in my response was immediately to feel like hackles rise on my neck and the anger welled up inside of me. And I said, No, I said, some of the most educated people are bigots. And at that point, Barbara, who was kind of she was much more alert and much more intensely involved in the whole discussion, and was listening to every word I was seeing. I wish I'd been talking to her. She was nodding her head that you know, rolling her head up and down, up and down. No, no, it's from Bush. No acknowledgement of the truth. It kind of felt like, like describing something to a shrink in a room full of people with 100 Press, people with their little boom boxes and flashing cameras all on you while you're telling the President in a one to one situation, something that he knows already, or at least he should know. He's a big boy. He lives in the real world. Well, now the word gay was mentioned with with Bush Is there more than once? Did Bush mentioned the word gay by any chance? He didn't say the word gay. No, no Fauci introduced us as predominantly gay man, which I don't know what that mean, or six of us were gay, and I'm a gay 100% of the time, the aspect of gay relationships came up near the end of our meeting, with regards to Barbara, Barbara, Barbara is, is obviously a mother who has children. And she thinks that that, especially in this pre Christmas point in time, she's thinking of Christmas trees and family gatherings around the Christmas table. And she kind of leaned across to me and said, Well, what about your family at this this holiday time? Or are they being supportive? And I said, well, well, I said, my parents are back and Scott 5000 miles away. And I said, I haven't told them my events, because there's no reason that you know, I should submit them to knowing about it. I said, my real family here is Joseph, my lover. And this is just as we are all standing up and getting around. And it was hard to convey to the lady that the difference the definition, the correct definition of family, as being Joseph, somebody I've lived with for seven years, who we've owned three houses together and shared a bed together. Did you tell Barbara I wish I could his man was standing in the side called beckoning to him telling the President Mr. President, we really have to go. And it was time to hand out the little pie pins with the President's crest and get on his way. How did you feel the president reacted to the well, that's the soul searching question. As you sit staring into the degree is the Runkel.

Bro, you try to see what effects your words are having on the guy. It was like trying to make contact with a black hole. The information was flowing into the black hole. There was nothing coming out. He seemed to lack knowledge. That's a dangerous statement. But I as a scientist, that's my judgment. He seemed to genuinely like knowledge of the whole situation, and in particular, the effect on gay people. And that's an honest statement and honest assessment. His response on education to me was probably a genuine, maybe it was genuine. His response to another guy who was sitting next to me from Mississippi, was even more crazy. And even showed even more of a lack of understanding of the difficulties. This guy lives in rural Mississippi. Jackson, Mississippi, and his little two seconds of stardom with the President was to tell the President that he has to drive or fly all the way to NIH to get experimental drugs, because he has AIDS. And the President said, Well, why is that? That he had to ask why. And he had touched somebody with AIDS tell him because there's no federal funding for drugs, experimental drugs in Mississippi. He said, I have to drive five hours to get a dentist that will treat me and Bush looked confused. You know, yeah, this is this. Is this the United States that he's the president of that he's listening to this story? I mean, does this sound like the way a United States citizens should be treated? And I was afraid I was being too belligerent. I was visibly getting angry. And the guy from Mississippi was visibly angry also, I mean, nobody who has AIDS and who has seen people die of AIDS and who is affected by it can be without anger, and especially faced with the silence that we've had from this administration, and the disgusting display from the previous administration, and Bush is just has been so silent. He has, has an inability to talk about it. Even when confronted with six gay men. He looked confused confusion was his response. I think to most of the whole situation. He probably went to sleep after it and woke up and thought it was a bad dream.

But the straight folks who don't mind gaze, but wish they weren't so blatant.

34:53

You know, some people got a lot of nerve. Sometimes I don't believe that things I see in here. Have you met a woman who shocked by two women kissing and in the same breath tells you that she's pregnant. But gays shouldn't be blinded. Or the straight couple sits next to you in a movie, and he can't hear the dialogue because of the sound effects. But gays shouldn't be blinded. And the woman in your office, spend your whole lunch hour talking about her new bikini drawers and how much her husband likes them. But gays shouldn't be blamed. Or the hip check in your class. rattling a mile a minute while you're trying to get stoned in a job about the camping trip she took with her musician boyfriend. But gays shouldn't be blatant. You go in a public bathroom, and all over the walls. This John loves Mary Janice digs Richard Pepe, love the Loris, etc. But gays shouldn't be labeled. Or you go to an amusement park. And it's a tunnel of love. And pictures of streets painted on the front and grinning couples coming in and out. But days shouldn't be blatant. Fact is blatant Heterosexuals are all over the place. Supermarkets, movies, at work in church, in books on television every day and nice everyplace even in gave us and they want gay men and women to go hide in the closet. So do you strike folks? I say Sure. I'll go if you go to, but I'm polite. So after you.

36:43

Remember when I first heard about getting high, my so called friends said it will make me feel better than anything. That was my 12th birthday was three years ago. seems so long ago. Now on top of stealing from my family for drugs, I've been given up my body for it too. But with AIDS on the street, I really don't know what's next.

37:06

There are many ways you can get high like shooting up and sharing needles, smoking, crack or drinking and all of them can put you at risk of getting the AIDS virus because when you're out there on a high you don't think clearly and you may take foolish risks. So don't let drugs put you at risk. In fact, don't do drugs at all. They can destroy your mind as well as your body. Find out more about our drug use and either related call the National AIDS hotline, one 800 342 AIDS,
