Hmm. And that was queen with Bohemian Rhapsody, which makes kind of an interesting transition from Reba Mcintyre. Yes. But BJ did a lot of rebirth. So that's why we played a couple of Reba songs for him. And Bohemian Rhapsody was because of Freddie Mercury, who recently died of AIDS. Yes. Who was a member of Queen factors. He was like the important member of not important, most important central, but he was the central lead singer for Queen. And this was used in the movie Wayne's World. Yes. And so they rereleased it and all the proceeds from it are going to AIDS hunting. I'm not sure if it's all over the world or just in England. But it's it's a nice, nice song. I mean, I've always loved it. It's Oh, yeah. Like, you know, going back to my my 70s days.

J

Jeff Mackey 01:05

Way back then way back

K

Kay Harper 01:07

when sometimes I feel real old.

J

Jeff Mackey 01:10

Yeah, me too.

K

Kay Harper 01:11

And I'm not know. I mean, I went to dinner with women who were all older than I am. Some of them my decades older than I am

J

Jeff Mackey 01:21

ratio, practically children. Okay, that may be pushing it.

K

Kay Harper 01:26

I think that's pushing it a little bit. But um, our next song is unforgettable by Nat King Cole and Natalie Cole. Think Hang on just a second. Let me get all the buttons. And that was for all of those that we think are unforgettable. Our next musical selection is maybe not quite what we usually play around here because it's actually a children's song. It's off of the tape called I like me by Joe Wayman, who is someone that I didn't know very well. But I did meet him a few times. Who just recently died in the last month and a half or so. And this is just a fun little song. Just seems sort of appropriate for so many of the fuzzy people around here. And that was Joe Wayman, with because it's fuzzy. And Joe, besides doing children's songs and music kinds of things, also wrote a couple of books, one of which is called don't burn down the birthday cake, which is the central thing is about a dragon who tries to blow up his own birthday cake, but it's subtitled poems for kids from six to 96. And I want to read the last poem in the book, which is called the last time the last time there had to be a last time I played hide and seek or cowboys and Indians. There had to be a last time the mailman brought me a secret code ring. Or last time I climbed our big sycamore tree, or ran down our alley and a red Superman cape. There had to be a last time I hid under my bed or yelled, can Paul come out and play or lay on my stomach and the fresh cut grass Nate stems are the last time my mother attended my wounded knees. And there had to be a last time I ate Campbell's tomato soup in the table in the breakfast nook in the house where I grew up. And there had to be a last time I sat on our concrete front porch at the end of summer and waited for the winter. I've done so many things for the very last time.

J

Jeff Mackey 04:05

As this burning question never be answered. I don't know, will it? I don't know. It's been being asked for years and no one has yet come up with an answer.

K

Kay Harper 04:14

Well, his name is not David. I mean, if his name was David, we'd know.

J

Jeff Mackey 04:18

Yes, this is true. This is true. Well, we've had some really interesting jumps around the musical spectrum this evening. It's an eclectic evening. Yes, this is our eclectic evening on after hours.

◊

04:35

A continuing tradition.

J Jeff Mackey 04:36

I cannot forget

K Kay Harper 04:38

that. No, no. This is not the old stuff. This is the new stuff. Yes. Whether it's improved or not. We're not sure but it's new. It's different.

J Jeff Mackey 04:48

That's right. Ask for much more than that.

K Kay Harper 04:52

What can we ask for though? Well,

J Jeff Mackey 04:55

there are a few more things that we might want to mention this evening. So things that you might want to be aware of out there in radio land. There is a new group that has started recently just in the past few months. For people who live out in the north area. The boonies, yes. The various designations for it. 1960 umbel Greenspoint area if you live out there, I don't know why you would. But if you do,

K Kay Harper 05:30

some people work out that way. I know it's some people like to be very nice area. It is I know some people who live out there on mornings like this with the art festival going on. There's good reason not to live in the Montrose. But yeah, the organization is called the Houston North professionals. And it's a good group I actually got to visit at their last meeting. I think they had a meeting tonight. And so if you live out there, you know and might want something closer to your area to get involved with, you might give them a call their number is 8217126.

J Jeff Mackey 05:37

K Kay Harper 06:07

And if you are maybe a little closer in town are willing to make the drive in. There is going to be a fundraiser kickoff fundraiser for the March on Austin Houston committee a year to the day before the March, it'll be on April 25 1992. That's because the March on Washington is April 25 1993. And basically what they're looking for right now is people to become involved in the committee, people to help staff tables and be on tag teams to serve as speakers and all that kind of stuff. And meetings are all at the gRPC office on the second Thursday of the month. And the gRPC office is at 900 Lovett Boulevard Boulevard. Anyway, one of those things, it's a story of Broken Dreams with things in the middle called medians. And the meetings are from 630 to 830. And since I talked about them before, I'm going to give them a plug Houston remedy women's rugby. I think I'm glad I'm going home real soon. And for more information you can call Shelly at 7768451. They apparently play at the Bel Air YMCA at six o'clock on Sundays. Maybe I'll go out and watch. And you've got something else there. I see something in your lap.

J Jeff Mackey 07:39

Yes, yes. It says it's Houston's first dance and alternative music show.

K Kay Harper 07:45

Oh, I thought we were alternative music.

J Jeff Mackey 07:48

It's certainly alternative to everything is an alternative to something else tonight. Sponsored by the beat and to benefit names project. That is next Saturday, the 18th. From 10am to 5:30pm at the dais in downtown, which is 801 Calhoun Street. So if that's your scene, that's something you might want to check out and then fit the names project.

K Kay Harper 08:15

Yeah. And the names project is coming to Houston or at least a small part of it is yes, since it's so huge. They they keep saying that they're making the last time they're going to exhibit the whole thing in its entirety. And I've heard that at least twice. Yes. But they're doing that again. But they're also showing a small portion of it here in Houston at University of St. Thomas, the first weekend of May. Which is like real Suneo. Yeah. Okay. And coming up after the BBC is Eric with carbon dating game. Thanks a lot for listening. And Thanks, Jeff. And Jimmy and Jimmy and Steve and everybody else who's been helping out. It's a very Thanks, Gary. Gary, definitely. Okay, thanks for your
