And we're back at KPFT Houston. That's World Radio now. 90.1 FM, and this is after hours the gay and lesbian radio, a continuing tradition on KPFT is that everything don't have everything down. And producer Yes, yeah. Okay, great. Got everything great. That is let me see you continue to dish and KPFT after hours we're now World Radio. Okay, that's about it. 90.1 Cool. Well, boys and girls get out your pens and pencils because I've got some phone numbers for you. Actually, I've got a lot of phone numbers. I want to read briefly while you're getting your pens and pencils. We just heard a couple of Garth Brooks tunes. You may be asking yourself, Garth Brooks. Why the heck are y'all playing Garth Brooks? Just don't get it. I want to read this article very quickly. It says Garth Brooks takes a brave stand. The October 12 1992 issue of Newsweek magazine featured an article on Garth Brooks a big star and country western music. Garth has a song on his new album called The Chase which entitled we shall be free. The song has lyrics that say when we are free to love anyone we choose, then we shall be free. Explaining the song Garth said, the way I remember it. traditional family values was encouraging children to be the best they can be. If your parents are black and white if your parents are of the same sex and that's still tradition, traditional family values to me. Garth had expected a lot of anger from the religious community, but he's not received it. He did receive angry letters and his response was that quote, they always say, in brackets gays should be granted some rights and it seems to be in brackets only the rights these people are writing in think they should be allowed. Can I say that D word that has four letters in it. Damn, I don't know when someone gets off telling human beings they can have some rights and not others. Thank you, Garth. The article in Los Angeles Times recently reported that the song was not getting AirPlay that some other songs of gars had and so the song is not broken into the top 10 of Country and Western. Despite this j or reporter for the Nashville banner newspaper said the fact that it received airplay at all shows a growth in country audiences willingness to accept more socially themed lyrics. I think it's a very positive thing for country music that it can take different points of view. Other artists have made overt statements but they tended to be more right wing. Five years ago, this song would have sounded radical. Newsweek said, this kind of progressive topical songwriting coming from rock or rock rap Act would have been no big deal. But from Brooks, it's a revolution. And this is from parents in PFLAG parents and friends of lesbians, gays, and their response was, as caring parents and friends of lesbian gays, we need to take heart and people like Garth Brooks who take brave stands on issues and helps us to keep going and to keep our courage as we fight the everyday battles for the dignity of our children and friends. The song was not a headline event in our nation, for our children and friends or for country western music. But it should not go unnoticed, because we need to honor the courage it takes to speak out and in this case to sing out against a world that can be cruel and discriminatory. And this is from PFLAG in Omaha. What I've just handed you my lovely assistant. Vinay is something from TW T. It's the very back guide in from this week in Texas magazine. And I've marked off about five numbers, I guess, that are important for people, either for people who are just coming out or for people who have special needs, like maybe they just found out they're HIV positive and you need to know what to do from there. Or maybe in this holiday season if you're a person gay or lesbian person of Jewish descent you need to know a number or some information to call. Can you like read some of those numbers on force?

Anybody's welcome to attend and volunteer that marched the streets in the Montrose area, usually weekend nights, until very early hours in the morning patrolling against hate crimes, crime in general, gay bashing, etc. And they need car operators and everything else. I mean, you've done it can you might be able to explain that a little bit more key patrol is been in business or been operating in operation for about a year and a half and the hate crimes have gone down significantly. It was basically spawned out of a reaction to the Paul Broussard murder, and keep Patrol has been a wonderful, wonderful entity. We are however losing your membership and everything and we need some new people with with some who want to get out and help.

07:46

And part of that the reason that things lose energy is because things get better. That's sure thanks sure better a victim of our own circumstances.

C Cindy Friedman 17:44

I'm Cindy Friedman, and I'm Brian Nunez with news wrap a summary of some of the news in or affecting the lesbian and gay community for the week ending December 5 1992. Grupo guided by is report on the many murders of gays in Brazil was published in the mainstream newspaper or global late last month. Based on reports from newspapers, police and family members. The organization found that at least 50 gay men were killed in Rio de Janeiro from January through September this year, an average of one gay every five days. They claim that 1200 gays were killed in Brazil from 1980 through 1991. Grupo guide Delta II believes the true numbers could be even higher because of family's desire to hide the victim sexual orientation. They also claim that only about 10% of crimes against gays lead to serious police investigation. Usually when the victim is rich or famous. Most of the killings are registered as robbery related deaths rather than murders. Most victims have been transvestites or foreign visitors.

Nicaraguan human rights activists have filed their Supreme Court challenge to article 204. The new sodomy law called the most repressive in Latin America. Article 204 goes beyond sex acts to prescribe up to three years in prison for anyone who quote promotes or propagandize is the cohabitation of individuals of the same sex and quote, the government tried to avoid the challenge with a tricky move, officially publishing the law on October 31, while dating it retroactively to September 9. Nicaraguan law allows 60 days after publication for appeals to be filed, but this dating game actually allowed only nine days. Managua Center for Constitutional Rights managed to turn in their appeal on the last day. Center attorneys hope that the court will find that article 204 violates privacy guarantees in the Nicaraguan constitution.

C Cindy Friedman 19:48

Openly gay US Congress member Barney Frank was part of a delegation to Russia demanding the release of gay men imprisoned under Article One to 1.1. Although repeal of the sodomy statute is being considered international gay and lesbian Human Rights Commission director Julie Dorf says the men now in prison cannot wait while Parliament deliberates. The Commission sponsored the delegation, which visited a jail and an AIDS clinic in Moscow as well as meeting with officials. Russian gay activist Roman Cullinan believed Frank speech in Moscow might be the largest gathering of gays and lesbians in the history of Russia. It ought to be a jolly holiday for gay men in Gibraltar, as a government official has promised repeal of the colony's sodomy law before Christmas. If Attorney General John Blackburn Giddings is correct in predicting that the House of Assembly will vote to repeal Ireland's sodomy law will be the last in Western Europe.

C Cindy Friedman 20:50

China's leading sexologist believes there has been some progress towards acceptance of gays and lesbians there. At least in larger cities. There are public meeting places for gays in Beijing, Canton and Shanghai. But in other areas, gays are still sent to labor reform camps or given electroshock treatments. Although Lu d'alene thinks it's wrong that gays and lesbians are often quote treated like scoundrels and quote, he hopes his own research will ultimately lead to prevention of homosexuality. His latest efforts surveyed 227 men and 27 women, police or acquaintances had identified as gay or lesbian. Although 40% denied they were homosexuals, lewd things, most were lying 1/3 of the subjects called homosexuality, harmful behavior, and almost 1/5 said they'd had same gender sex for lack of opportunities with the opposite gender.

21:53

On December 2, the seven members City Commission of Miami Beach, Florida unanimously adopted anti discrimination legislation that includes gays and lesbians. The new more inclusive Miami Beach Human Rights Ordinance also prohibits discrimination based on race, religion, age and marital status. Miami Beach is known as a politically progressive city, with a population that includes large Hispanic, Jewish and gay and lesbian constituencies. The unanimous City Commission vote comes barely a month after Tampa, Florida voters repealed their lesbian and gay rights law. Kevin lunar has more hundreds of supporters and opponents filled the chamber for the two hour meetings. More than 30 people addressed the commission an overwhelming majority in support of the ordinance, and the opposition was clearly too little too late. Bob Goodell worked with Anita Bryant in 1977 to overturn de Kelly short lived gay rights ordinance, a capital disguises him more fabric of society will give homosexual special privileges over all of society. In general insurance specifically, the ordinance makes it illegal now to discriminate on the basis of sexual orientation in the areas of how they as employment. It's the first such ordinance to Dade or Broward counties. It's still perfectly legal to discriminate against gays and lesbians in every other city in Dade County, in Miami, Florida for this way out. I'm Kevin Lerner.

22:29

22:49

23:03

C Cindy Friedman 23:25

San Diego, California City School Trustees voted unanimously to ban discrimination against lesbian and gay employees and students. Later this month, they'll consider whether to extend the policy to the use of their facilities by outside groups, including the Boy Scouts of America.

23:45

Three lesbian couples have won a landmark decision in Minnesota, where the Minneapolis Civil Rights Commission found the city's failure to provide domestic partners health insurance coverage to be illegal discrimination. The case was brought by three library employees who were awarded a total of more than $90,000 in damages.

During the passage of California's new anti-discrimination law, a D 2001 Lockheed Missiles and space company has added sexual orientation to its equal opportunities policy. Lockheed is one of the largest military contractors in the US and the Navy is its largest customer.

The US Navy has to pay for its latest legal maneuver against openly gay sailor Keith Weinhold. In the middle of November, the government had promised to drop its appeal of a court order reinstating mine hold but instead actually filed a second appeal a few days later. Judge Terry Hatter ordered the government to paint my notes resulting legal expenses estimated at $10,000

c Cindy Friedman 24:49

General Colin Powell chair the US Joint Chiefs of Staff supports continuing the ban on military service by gays and lesbians.

24:58

There are issues of enormous legal and administrative difficulty associated with a change in that policy. And there are significant issues of privacy.

c Cindy Friedman 25:08

But now Powell also says that he does not believe as some have claimed that lifting the ban will destroy discipline and morale and the armed forces. Catherine lumens reports

25:20

General Powell told students at American University in Washington that he still supports the ban on gays in the military and despite President Elect Clinton's intention to lift that ban. Powell contends that allowing ultimately gay men and women to serve would strain discipline and impinge on privacy. But he added that he's never thought it would, as he put it break the force or cause mass resignations. Paul noted that he's met with Clinton and believes the president elect will take time to study the issue fully. And Paula said he hopes people will keep emotionalism out of the issue until there's time for a full debate probably early next year. Catherine lumens Washington,

The US National Endowment for the Arts has denied grant funds to support gay and lesbian film festivals in New York, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh. The three programs were the only ones rejected from a package of 53 grants proposed to the NEA by the National Alliance of Media Arts and Cultures. In Alaska, a stage play about black gay men fared better. The accurate city transit department had refused to post ads for the show in buses, claiming regulations prevented advertising for adults only material. The poster for fierce love showed only a close up of a man's eyes. The North theater filed a lawsuit and won a decision from Superior Court Judge John Katz, who felt the ad regulations were too vague. That was the position of the producers attorney Jeffrey Mayhook who believed the city could use the same logic to ban ads for Shakespearean plays or Greek tragedies.

c Cindy Friedman 29:32

the World Congress of gay and lesbian Jewish organizations has joined a coalition of mainstream Jewish groups to assist refugees in famine stricken Somalia. According to Congress director Barrett Brick. This is the first time that a gay group has been invited into a broad national and international coalition. The Congress will raise funds and assist in building a refugee camp near the border between Somalia and Kenya.

And finally, India's gay and lesbian community has steadily become more visible over the last five years, and so has a high incidence of bisexuality. A reader survey by Debonair a magazine targeted to middle class urban men found that about 37% of respondents had had sex with other men, and that for 8%, their first sexual experience had been with another man. At least one activist believes those figures are conservative. At a meeting earlier this year of ILGA, the International lesbian and gay Association, prominent Indian gay activist A Shock Row CAVI opposed yoga membership for bisexual organizations. In India he said, If we allow bisexuals, then we will have to admit 80% of the population

Is what the world is talking about you got confused. limiter is getting louder Hey. You now there was one time. giant giant. At least three major American organizations have cancelled plans to hold conventions in Colorado since that state's voters approved constitutional amendment to repealing civil rights protections for lesbians and gays. However, debate over the wisdom of a full boycott continues. Scott Schlegel reports from Denver, a coalition of Colorado business leaders including Denver Mayor Wellington Webb say the boycott amounts to punishing the victims of amendment to many people that come to Colorado first of all, they have to come into Denver. 60% of the people in Denver voted against amendment to buy them boycotting the city of Denver in the cities of Boulder in the cities of aspen where they are equal protection ordinances. They're also punishing those cities that were in opposition. And it's my sense that it's misdirected anger that has really not been thought through.

Webb recommends that people who criticize the passage of Amendment to look first at their own state and local governments to see if equal rights ordinances have been passed. Rather than endorse a boycott some Colorado business leaders are speaking out against amendment to pledging that their companies will not discriminate against gays and lesbians. However, some Colorado wins believe that to keep similar discriminatory laws from being passed in other states. They have to send a message. Robert Briggs Daniels is a spokesperson for the group Boycott Colorado.

33:27

We're saying to everyone don't come to the state of Colorado, don't bring tax dollars into the state. Don't visit here don't buy products, you know originate from here because it still ends up with tax dollars coming into the state. Now there were 15 counties in this state that did vote no on two. However, even just going to those counties, tax dollars for the state still get distributed statewide.

33:52

The Atlanta city council is asking cities across the country to join its boycott. Entertainer Barbra Streisand has spoken out against amendment to as well as Aspen regulars share Robert Wagner Gil St. John and others in the city of Boulder were protections from discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation were repealed by amendment to shoppers asked at random about the boycott had mixed views. Do you think that people around the country should be boycotting Colorado because of the passage of Amendment to?

34:21

Absolutely not. The people of Colorado have the right to run their own state based on their values, their lifestyles, what they feel is morally right. And it's not fair to have someone else step in and tell them they're wrong. What's not really gonna change the government's mind. I mean, it already got passed. It's kind of useless.

34:44

I feel like putting pressure on the state will maybe help get that particular law repealed. But on the other hand, it's hurting the economy and I guess I'd have to say, Yes, I agree. They should be boycotting the state.

34:58

I don't think it'll hurt the state that much but I think it'll maybe it'll make a slight impact but I don't think things that'll make it'll make that great of an impact. But who knows, it's only starting right.

35:07

lawsuits challenging the amendments constitutionality have been filed by the Colorado Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, as well as the cities of Denver, Boulder and Aspen, whose civil rights protections for sexual orientation were rescinded by amendment to several individual plaintiffs have also joined the suit, including an unnamed heterosexual man who has AIDS and tennis star Martina Navratilova who is openly lesbian. Attorney Jean du Bosque is Chief Counsel for the diverse coalition of plaintiffs who want amendment to thrown out.

35:39

Our complaint alleges that it violates the 14th Amendment to the United States Constitution, that it's unconstitutional because it treats people who are gay or lesbian or bisexual in a way that is different from all other citizens of the state of Colorado. This is a constitutional amendment that has very broad reaching effects.

36:07

Plaintiffs also argue that the amendment is vague restricts free speech prevents the free exercise of religion limits Home Rule powers of local government, denied gays and lesbians access to the courts, and that by violating the US constitution amendment to also violates Colorado's constitution.
