Well, well, well, well. How ultra cool. Hey, do you have whiplash? I mean, was that like, party time? You know, rock and roll queer bar kind of band and then was was me include clean. never claimed to be a singer. It's okay. Whiplash. Whiplash. Shut up. Shut up. Thank you. Love you too. Yep, yep, that makes noise. Do this to the microphone. Everybody out right now, Greg. Testing testing 1234. Yep, got it. Okay. And everyone breathe in the microphone. Okay, that works. It works. Do it again. I liked it. Depeche Mode song everyone quickly make your favorite noise. It's the microphone. Hey. That's enough. That's enough. Hey, artistical I can ask if it happens. You got to ask for the things that you need in your day right now. But it happens today. Person nation. You know what? I'm about to play some really cool stuff for you. And it's gonna be cool, because it's a trip out of my past. You know, that's a blast from our past because like, We are the same age and we're really close in age. I'm older though. Yeah, it's true. wiser. I think not. I think that you may be in the minds of our youth, you are not necessarily older and wiser. This is my first lifetime as a person. Okay, I believe you. And maybe second or third, but I used to be a tree. Sara, do you have any thoughts on that right? Okay, cool. I think I'm an old soul myself old enough so that I don't have time for this. Snare for that one. I had something really. Last one passed. That's what your last from the past. The blast from my past would be this group. And I heard recently not too recently, obviously. But fairly recently. The new be 50 twos. Tune shack. You know. Love shack, all that stuff. Yeah, like cool stuff. The new stuff is really cool. But the old stuff. classic, classic. Classic. It reminds me of just the coolest times. It reminds me of driving to high school, in a car with a bunch of people with rubber gloves. On. Yeah. skipping school and driving in a car. Okay, I wasn't gonna say that. I was gonna say friends see now but wait and what you missed here is the implication that why would a bunch of my friends be driving to school with me from my house? So I was trying to imply perhaps that I was skipping school, like maybe during drama or something. So, you know, that's what it reminds me of. And also Newman, what's his name? Gary Numan. Gary Numan. Remember Gary Numan. Very similar to the in cars. Data? Yeah, same kind of genre happening, Michael. Okay. But now right now. Right now we've got not dating anybody. Leave that alone. Time. Doo doo doo doo doo doo. Okay, Rock Lobster. It means a lot to us because it was happening right around like maybe our high school years. This one. At the end of the month. We're gonna be playing it in memory of it. And because of the instance that we have learned about when what's his name? Aaron Frick. Aaron Frick. To his boyfriend to his prom? Yeah. It happened the very first time for real in public and everything.

J

Jimmy Carper 03:49

And I've already you know, I've seen young people. What's a good term can use you use use. And you know, you can always tell when prom. prom season comes because all of all of the women look like they're in their mid 20s. And all the guys look like they're about 15 You know, because these these women are wearing these fabulous dresses and like to have queens come over and do their facial hair, you know, right. It's just wonderful. And then these pipsqueak boys, I mean, they just just wearing these, their daddy's tuxes or something. I don't know. It just looks strange to me. See now in my school that was very class when I'm old. You know, in my school, you're not that old. In my school. The guys it was very preppy kind of school and the guys wearing like matching cummerbund and ties with Hawaiian prints on them in scarves they thought the scarves were just a really cool yeah and to me they looked really dorky was really at Yeah, because it was like about five years after the after gay guys refused to wear it anymore. Outra okra Oh tray Okay, whatever. Well,

D

Diane Williams 04:31

J

Jimmy Carper 04:48

D

Diane Williams 05:06

But we want to take that song. That's right, and we're introducing a song. Thank you. We want to take that song and play it for you. And the reason we want to play for you is because we want you to be there with us. We want you to be where you were, in your prom time, if you're around our age, and if you're not around our age, we want you to think of being in your prom time, whatever age that might have been, whether you went or whether you didn't go, whether you took a date, or whether you took somebody else's date and said it was your date. Are you confused yet? I'm not that confused. What was the was there a thought someone was saying what I think not.

J Jimmy Carper 05:42

And it's a shock to me because once again, I was sitting here you know, minding my own business, living my life, being on the radio, partying with some friends having a good time. And listening to the Rocky Horror Picture Show, you know during the time or thinking about prior high school problems and really happy fun stuff. And somebody comes up behind me and puts down a newspaper in front of me and it happens to be the obituary sections and a friend of mine once again is gone. Felix Garcia of Houston passed away Tuesday May 5 at 1am with his loving family had aside he had every kind of like okay, now you're acknowledging the fact that I'm crying on the radio. D Diane Williams 07:56

And I met Felix when Felix was probably at one of his sickest moments. I'd worked with him before and I'd seen him before, but I actually got to sit down and chat with them and meet Felix the person only for a very short period of time, but it was during when we were both working the polls at your your own neighborhood family gay Polling Center at Felix's restaurant, yes, and Felix was very sick. He was very tired and very thin. And he still even at that moment was out doing what he could for the people and being being a good citizen. That was what Felix will always be to me the best citizen he can be. It was a father and a husband and a brother and a wonderful person and we'll miss you and this is for
